In "My Family and Other Animals," Gerald Durrell, a world renowned zoologist gives a laugh-packed account of two years he and his family spent on the Greek island of Corfu. In a series of vividly-written sketches, he brings each family member to life, so that the reader comes to know Larry, Margo, Leslie, mother, and young Gerry as individuals with lifelike traits and interests. Throughout the three hundred pages, the reader meets a number of the Greek islanders, including Spiro, a pro-British taxi driver who befriends the family in never-to-be-forgotten ways, and the Rose-Beetle Man, who sells a number of hard-to-resist items such as small tortoises and rose beetles.
