There are different types of bilinguals. Most bilinguals have a preferred language, which they use most of the time, and then a second language, the level and use of which will differ significantly from one person to another. There are a few people whom we call "balanced bilinguals". They can speak, read or write both languages equally well. For example a child in a family who speak two languages can be called balanced bilingual. Bilingualism can be found in many areas of the world. Members of these communities use two (or more) languages as a matter of course. South Africa, Belgium, Wales, Ireland and Canada are some examples of countries where bilingualism exists, (This does not mean that everyone living in these countries is bilingual).
