

60 MINUTE CD INSIDE

Capture some language with hot english magazine

ROAD RAGE
Travelling and anger.

USEFUL LANGUAGE
The body.

IRONY
How to be ironic.

THE BOUNTY HUNTER
Professional fun with fugitives.

WATCH & LEARN!
Watch videos related to topics in the magazine!
Now with subtitles!

FITNESS FADS
Unusual ways to get fit.

TALK SHOWS
Late night TV programmes.

BODY LANGUAGE
Learn how to read the signs.

THE FACE OF ENTERTAINMENT

JENNIFER ANISTON

JAMIE FOXX

Comedian, actor and musician.

HOLLYWOOD HUNTERS

Bounty hunters in films and television.

PLUS... grammar, error correction, jokes, anecdotes, trivia, slang, phrasal verbs, social English...

CURSOS DE IDIOMAS - EMPRESAS/PARTICULARES

hot english
LANGUAGE SERVICES

A MEMBER OF HOT ENGLISH PUBLISHING SL

Inspirational Education

CURSOS DE IDIOMAS

¿BUSCAS CLASES DE IDIOMAS?

Hot English Language Services te ofrece un sistema profesional y motivador basado en nuestro método comunicativo: clases basadas en la actualidad que te garantizará clases interesantes, innovadoras y estimulantes. De esta forma, tendrás:

Más motivación

Más diversión en tus clases

Rápido progreso

ADemás DE LAS HORAS LECTIVAS,
TODOS NUESTROS ESTUDIANTES RECIBEN:

- > Revista Hot English cada mes
- > Nuestro método: Skills Booklets.
- > Acceso gratuito a la zona restringida de nuestra web (1,500 artículos, 500 audiciones)

Y TODO ESTO A PRECIOS
REALMENTE COMPETITIVOS

LAS ENSEÑANZAS IMPARTIDAS POR ESTE CENTRO
NO CONDUCEN A LA OBTENCIÓN DE UN TÍTULO OFICIAL.

Llámanos al 91 455 0273

o envíanos un correo electrónico a

(Madrid) classes@hotenglishmagazine.com

(Barcelona) barcelona@hotenglishmagazine.com

www.hotenglishgroup.com

CONTACTA CON
NOSOTROS PARA
MÁS INFORMACIÓN
SOBRE CLASES DE INGLÉS, FRANCÉS, PORTUGUÉS, CASTELLANO, CHINO,
ALEMÁN, ITALIANO
Y MÁS! LLAMA AL
91 455 02 73

Editor's intro

Hi, and welcome to another issue of Hot English Magazine, the fun magazine for learning English. We're looking at various forms of body language this month. There's lots to learn. For example, experts say that if you're lying (and you don't want someone to know that you are!), you should avoid playing with your fingers or clothing, and you should never touch your nose. Apparently, Bill Clinton touched his nose 26 times when responding to questions (dishonestly) about his relationship with Monica Lewinsky. Oh, and keep smiling. Studies have shown that people who are telling the truth smile more.

We're also looking at the issue of spelling. As you know, English spelling is a nightmare, especially the spelling of those tricky words which change according to the form. This is the case with words such as "maintenance" (whose verb is "maintain"), and "pronunciation" (whose verb is "pronounce"). Before the days of spellcheckers, I always thought it was "pronounciation", but it is in fact "pronunciation". You can read all about the British Minister for Schools and the embarrassing spelling mistakes on his blog.

Our main focus this month is on the word "bounty". We're looking at a film (The Bounty Hunter), we're going to tell you all about bounty hunting (the job), and we're recounting the story of a famous boat, The Bounty. We're also looking at forms of transport rage, the Black Country accent and "irony". Find out how to be ironic, which is a very British thing to be! Anyway, good luck with your English language learning, and see you all next month.

Yours,
Andy

PS Remember to order your copy of the Hot English Method (Hot English magazine + Skills Booklets)! For more information on the subscription options for this amazing resource, e-mail business@hotenglishmagazine.com or call (00 34) 91 549 8523.

PPS Don't forget about the Hot English videos. They're in the free area of our website: www.hotenglishmagazine.com Watch and learn!

PPS For overseas callers, our SKYPE address is: hotenglishmagazine2010

Hot English students. Download the MP3s from www.hotenglishmagazine.com Click on "English Learners" and then "Members' Area". For more information, please e-mail business@hotenglishmagazine.com or call (00 34) 91 549 8523.

CD index

1. Hello
2. Body Language
3. The Kill Switch
4. Story Time
5. Let's talk about...
Body Language
6. Functional language:
The Telephone
7. Radio ad
8. Fingers' Error Correction
9. Pre-Intermediate Listening:
Home Sweet Home
10. Pampered Pets
11. Fighting Fun
12. Intermediate Listening:
Animal Charity
13. All the Rage
14. Radio ad
15. To the Manner Born
16. Quirky News
17. Corny Criminals
18. Riddles
19. British Bar Chat: My Favourite Bar
20. US Bar Chat: Not Looking Good
21. Upper Intermediate Listening:
School Food
22. Dictionary of Slang
23. Radio ad
24. Chat-Up Lines
25. Accent Alert
26. Advanced Listening: Slander Slam
27. Wacky Workouts
28. Big Lies
29. Off-the-Cuff
30. Goodbye

This symbol tells you that there's a video on the website that's related to the article.
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

This symbol tells you that the text is recorded and is available on the CD or as an MP3.

Magazine Index

- 3 Editorial
- 4 Body Language
- 5 Kill Switch
- 6 Name Game; & Story Time
- 7 Directory
- 8 Useful Vocabulary: The Body
- 9 Useful Verbs and Expressions: The Body
- 10 Skills Booklet Reading: What a Story!
- 11 Let's talk about... Body Language
- 12 Functional language: The Telephone / How to Use Hot English
- 13 Error correction & Skills Booklet Listening: Home Sweet Home
- 14 Grammar Fun; Back issues
- 15 Skills Booklet Reading: Suits You
- 16 Pampered Pets
- 17 Fighting Fun
- 18 How to... speak English
- 19 Skills Booklet Listening: Animal Charity; Photo Magic
- 20 Denver, Colorado
- 21 Late Night Shows
- 22 Jamie Foxx
- 23 Jennifer Aniston
- 24 Bounty Hunters
- 26 Mutiny on the Bounty
- 28 All the Rage
- 29 To the Manner Born
- 30 Dr Fingers' Vocabulary Clinic: Stupid People
- 31 Skills Booklet Reading: Hotel Horror
- 32 Quirky News / Corny Criminals / Riddles
- 33 Recipe: Tuna Pasta; Skills Booklet Listening: School Food
- 34 The Unfortunate Armada
- 36 Dictionary of Slang / Chat-up Lines
- 37 Accent Alert: The Black Country; Skills Booklet Listening: Slander Slam
- 38 Idioms: "Way"
- 39 Skills Booklet Reading: Famous Feasts
- 40 Wacky Workouts
- 41 Big Lies
- 42 Phrasal Verbs: The News
- 43 Subscriptions
- 44 Tapescripts
- 45 Answers
- 46 Word of the Month: Irony

Pre-Intermediate (CEF level: A2)

Intermediate (CEF level: B1)

Upper Intermediate (CEF level: B2)

Advanced (CEF level: C1)

20

Denver, Colorado
Outdoor fun in a fast-paced city.

21

Late Night Shows
What Americans get up to at night.

22

Jamie Foxx
Comedian, actor and musician.

23

Jennifer Aniston
Much more than the lovable Rachel of Friends.

24

Bounty Hunters
One of the world's most exciting jobs.

26

Mutiny on the Bounty
From drama on the high seas to a tiny island colony.

Advertising
(00 34) 91 543 3573

All material in this publication is strictly copyright, and all rights are reserved. Reproduction without permission is prohibited. The views expressed in Hot English Magazine do not necessarily represent the views of Hot English Publishing SL, however, we do think tuna pasta is delicious, Jamie is talented and Turkish wrestling looks like fun.

READING I

Body Language

Interesting information about the language that never lies.

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Match the descriptions (1 to 6) to the facial expressions (a-f).

1. Happy
2. Sad
3. Angry
4. Bored
5. Interested / curious
6. Frightened

2 Reading I

What is body language? Think about it. Then, read the article to check your ideas.

3 Reading II

Read the article again and complete the sentences.

1. Lie to Me is a popular television _____.
2. Body language is a series of _____ in the form of body movement.
3. Body language can help us understand a person's _____.
4. Studies have shown that actual words only represent about _____ of communication.
5. In most cultures, smiling shows _____.
6. Experts say that if someone looks at your eyes and then your nose, they consider you an _____.
7. People who smile genuinely, smile with all their _____.

4 Language focus Conjunctions

Look at this extract from the article, "...studies have suggested that only 7% of communication involves actual words, while 55% is visual..." The writer has used the conjunction "while" as a way of contrasting things. Complete the following sentences with your own ideas.

1. The people in the first room were hot, while the people in the second room...
2. I wanted the green one, while my sister wanted...
3. The first two groups wanted to go to the cinema, while the other groups wanted...
4. Jenny wanted to buy a house, while I was more interested in...

5 Discussion

1. Can you think of any more examples of body language? What?
2. Do you think body language is important in communication? Why? Why not?
3. Are there any gestures that are typical in your country? What is the equivalent in other societies?

Are you good at interpreting body language? You're probably better than you think, according to the experts.

There's a popular series on US television (Lie to Me) all about a body language expert. English actor Tim Roth plays the part of Dr Cal Lightman – the world's leading "deception expert". He solves crimes by observing suspects during questioning. And if someone lies, he knows it. The series is inspired by a real-life expert who helps with criminal cases and investigations. He does this by "reading" the human face, body and voice.

So what is body language exactly?

Basically, it's a series of signals (usually sent unconsciously) in the form of body movement, gesture, eye movement and voice.

Body language can actually transmit an enormous amount, and it can help us understand a person's attitude or state of mind. In fact, studies have suggested that only 7% of communication involves actual words, while 55% is visual (body language, eye contact) and 38% is vocal (pitch, speed, volume, tone of voice).

Many examples of body language are easy to identify. In most cultures, smiling shows happiness and a friendly attitude. So, when someone smiles at you, they're telling you that they're open, interested and happy to communicate. But if someone puts their arms across their chest, they're putting a barrier between themselves and you. And if this is combined with a harsh facial expression, watch out as this can indicate hostility.

Other examples are more complex. Experts say that if the person you're speaking to looks from one eye to the other and then at your forehead, they think they have authority over you. If it's your eyes and then your nose that they look at, then they consider you an equal. And if it's your eyes and then your mouth that they look at, they might be attracted to you.

It's very difficult to lie with your body language. For example, people who fake a smile only use the muscles around the mouth – and the top half of their face remains unchanged. However, a genuine smile involves the whole face, including the eyes. Research shows that most people unconsciously recognise the sincerity of a smile by looking at the top half of the face.

One of the great advantages with body language is that you don't have to learn it – you already know it, even if you don't know you do... if you know what I mean! ☺

GLOSSARY

- a suspect n
someone who the police believe is responsible for a crime
- questioning n
during "questioning", the police ask someone questions or interrogate that person
- gesture n
a movement that you make with a part of your body
- an attitude n
your "attitude" to something is the way you think and feel about that thing
- a state of mind n
your "state of mind" at a specific time is the way you feel at that time
- to involve vb
if a situation "involves" something, that thing is a part of that situation
- pitch n
the "pitch" of a sound is how high or low it is
- put a barrier between exp
if someone "puts a barrier between" him/herself and others, that person prevents others from getting close to him/her
- harsh adj
unkind, unpleasant, not nice
- a facial expression n an expression on your face that shows an emotion: fear, anger, sadness, etc.
- hostility n
aggression and anger towards others
- to lie vb
if you "lie", you don't tell the truth
- to fake vb
if you "fake" something, you do it even though it isn't real/true

READING II

The Kill Switch

Company fights against rumours of a kill switch.

Watch & Learn!
Listen to people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Match the electronic devices (1 to 6) to the pictures (a-f).

1. A videogames console
2. A laptop
3. An MP3 player
4. A digital camera
5. A camcorder / video-camera
6. A plasma screen TV

2 Reading I

What do you think a "kill switch" is?

Think for a moment. Then read the article to check your ideas.

3 Reading II

Add letters to complete the words.

1. A kill switch is an internal mech_____ that stops products working.
2. Some people believe products are programmed to stop working when the war_____ expires.
3. There are rumours that the timers are controlled remo_____.
4. In 2006, about 4 million la_____ were recalled because of faulty batteries.
5. Some customers claimed that their laptops broke after about a y____ of use.
6. The bug in the TV's internal system meant that it would only last for 1,200 h_____.

4 Language focus

The use of "still"

Look at this extract from the article, "...I've got a Sony Walkman from 15 years ago and that still plays cassettes!" The speaker has used the adverb "still". We can use "still" before a verb (the main verb) in the Present Simple or Present Continuous to say that something continues to be true. Re-write the following sentences with "still".

1. She lives in New York City.
2. He works in the bank.
3. They play in a band.
4. She is working from home.
5. We are making the food.
6. The cat is playing in the garden.

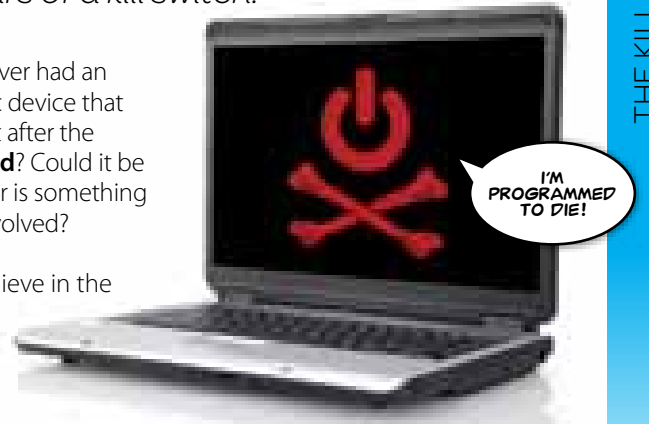

5 Discussion

1. Do you believe in the myth of the kill switch? Why? Why not?
2. Have you had any problems with electronic devices recently? What happened?
3. When was the last time you got an electronic device repaired? Was it covered by the guarantee?

Have you ever had an electronic device that broke just after the warranty expired? Could it be a coincidence? Or is something more sinister involved?

Many people believe in the existence of a "kill switch" – an internal mechanism in electronic devices that stops products working after a certain time. They are convinced that the products are programmed to break as soon as the warranty expires. This is the myth of the "kill switch" or the "product timer". Rumours have even emerged that the timers are controlled remotely, and set off just when a new product is ready to come out on the market.

One company in particular is at the centre of this debate: Sony. Sony is renowned for its top-quality electronic goods. They produce everything from video-cameras to DVD players to games consoles. But many people believe in the myth of the "Sony Timer". The rumour has been around since the 1980s. But recent incidents seem to have confirmed it. In 2006, about 4 million Dell laptops were recalled because of faulty Sony batteries. It was a disaster for Dell, but also for Sony as the incident put the myth into the public arena.

But there were other cases. Many customers complained about their Sony VAIO laptops, claiming that they broke after about a year of use. This was followed by another incident involving E-Series Bravia TVs. A bug in the TV's internal system meant that they would only last 1,200 hours before refusing to power on or off. This adds up to about 3 hours watching per day for one year, the exact period of the television's warranty. Sony was forced to issue a software patch to fix the problem.

Of course, Sony insists that the myth of the timers is totally absurd. There's no evidence to back up the claims. And, of course, millions of users are extremely happy with their Sony products. "I've had a Sony MP3 player for five years and it still works perfectly," said Elsie Barrows, a market researcher. "And I've got a Sony Walkman from 15 years ago and that still plays cassettes!" she added. Meanwhile, will you be renewing your warranty? ☺

GLOSSARY

- a warranty n
a written promise by a company that they will repair a product or replace it if there is a problem
- to expire vb
if a warranty "expires", it stops being valid
- sinister adj
something that appears to be very bad, evil or harmful
- a mechanism n
a part of a machine that often consists of a set of smaller parts that perform a function
- remotely adv
if something is activated "remotely", it is activated from a distance
- to set off phr vb
if a mechanism in a machine is "set off", it is activated
- to come out phr vb
if a product "comes out", a company places the product in shops / on the internet and people can buy it
- a games console n an electronic device for playing videogames
- to recall vb
if a company "recalls" a product, it tells people to bring it back to the factory, often so they can fix it
- faulty adj
if something is "faulty", it doesn't work properly or it has something wrong with it
- a battery n
a small device that you put in products to power them and make them work
- to complain vb
to say that you aren't satisfied with a product or service
- a laptop n
a portable computer (one that you can carry)
- a bug n
an error in an electronic device or computer
- to refuse vb
if a machine "refuses" to work, it won't work
- a patch n
a computer program that is designed to fix a problem
- to back up phr vb
if A "backs up" B, A provides information/evidence to support B

THE NAME GAME

THIS IS ANOTHER PART IN OUR SERIES ON FAMOUS NAMES WITH MEANING. MORE NEXT MONTH.

STORY TIME

Jokes, anecdotes and stories as told by native English speakers.

Jamie Foxx (American actor)
A "FOX" IS AN ANIMAL THAT LOOKS A BIT LIKE A DOG, BUT HAS RED FUR AND A BUSHY TAIL.
"We saw a fox at the bottom of our garden."

JK Rowling (British author)
IF YOU HAVE A "ROW" WITH SOMEONE, YOU ARGUE WITH THEM. IF YOU "ROW" A BOAT, YOU MAKE IT MOVE THROUGH THE WATER BY PULLING ON THE OARS (LONG PIECES OF WOOD).
"They had a row about money last night, but they're friends again today."
"She rowed the boat to the island."

Mel Brooks (American director)
A "BROOK" IS A SMALL STREAM (A VERY SMALL RIVER).
"We took our shoes off and walked across the brook."

James Dean (American actor)
A "DEAN" IS AN IMPORTANT ADMINISTRATOR AT A UNIVERSITY OR COLLEGE.
"She is Dean of the faculty of Modern Art at the University of Central London."

Louis Armstrong (American singer)
IF YOU ARE "STRONG", YOU HAVE A LOT OF PHYSICAL STRENGTH. YOUR ARMS ARE THE LIMBS THAT HAVE HANDS AT THE ENDS OF THEM.
"He is only six but he's very strong. He can lift more than 20kg."
"I've got a tattoo on my arm."

Sharon Stone (American actress)
A "STONE" IS A HARD, SOLID SUBSTANCE FOUND IN THE GROUND.
"The children threw stones at the window."

Birds of a Feather

Two friends are talking. "Hey, Mollie, why do birds fly south for the winter?" And Mollie says, "Because it's too far to walk!"

Piano versus Clarinet

John and Julie have just retired.

One day, their daughter, Keira, comes to visit. "Look what your mum's bought me," an excited John says. "A new piano. I've always wanted to learn how to play it." A few weeks later, Keira comes back to visit her parents. "Hey, mum, how are dad's piano classes coming along?" she asks. "Oh, we returned the piano," her mum says. "I persuaded your dad to switch to the clarinet instead." "Why?" Keira asks. "Because he can't sing with a clarinet!"

Mac versus PC

Two friends are having a conversation. "Without a doubt, Macs are far superior to PCs," says Ellie. "Oh, come on," argues Megan. "PCs are much better."

"Rubbish!" Says Ellie. "When was the last time you heard of a virus on a Mac?" she asks And Megan says, "You see. Even the people who write computer viruses aren't interested in Macs." ❄️

GLOSSARY

to retire vb
to stop working, often at the age of 65 to come along phr vb
if something is "coming along" well, it is progressing well to persuade vb
if you "persuade" someone to do something, you convince them to do that thing to switch to phr vb
if you "switch to" B, you stop using A and start using B a Mac n a Macintosh computer produced by the company Apple a PC n a personal computer, often one with Microsoft programs on it rubbish n
people often use this word to refer to things they think are false

Directory

TEACHING

hot english METHOD for Teachers!

Inspirational Education!
Up-to-date material linked to a structured course - a unique solution.
Teachers of English - Read this!
Skills Booklet (choose any of the 4 levels) + Teacher's Guide notes + 9 issues of Hot English magazine + 9 audio CDs.

- Structure + up-to-date teaching material = a unique combination!
 - Teach great classes and get your students really motivated with this amazing material.
 - 4 levels (Pre-Intermediate, Intermediate, Upper Intermediate, Advanced).
 - 18 units per level all accompanied by audio.
 - Essential grammar and vocabulary.
 - Clear syllabus for teacher and students from beginning of course to end.
 - Fun exercises to really motivate your students.
 - 30 pages of detailed teacher planning (ideas and tips) in the Teacher's Guide.
- See subscriptions page (43) for order form, call (00 34) 91 549 8523, e-mail subs@hotenglishmagazine.com, or visit www.hotenglishmagazine.com for more information.

TEACHING

TEACH ENGLISH

WITH HOT ENGLISH LANGUAGE SERVICES

We are continuously recruiting TEFL-qualified, native English teachers to give company classes at our prestigious clients' offices. We offer good rates of pay and timetables and excellent pedagogical support from our teaching and editorial team, plus our very own teaching method.

Please send your CV to: MADRID
classes@hotenglishmagazine.com or call 91 455 0273 BARCELONA
barcelona@hotenglishmagazine.com
www.hotenglishgroup.com

INTERNSHIPS

LOOK! INTERNSHIPS

Come and intern in Madrid. Dynamic office atmosphere. Great variety of tasks: journalism, marketing, design, finance, business, translation, sales, administration. Contact: info@hotenglishmagazine.com Call: 91 549 8523

TEACHING

<http://MADRIDTEACHER.COM>

English Vocabulary for Beginners

actividades en internet para principiantes

<http://madridteacher.com/Activities/>

TRANSLATION

Traducciones

Rapidez, precisión y calidad.

- > Traducciones profesionales,
- > Equipo de traductores profesionales, nativos y con mucha experiencia,
- > Todos los idiomas,
- > Traducciones jurídicas,
- > Servicios de interpretación.

contacta ahora para un presupuesto:
(00 34) 91 455 0273 o escribenos a info@hotenglishmagazine.com
www.hotenglishgroup.com

LICENSEES

Centro de Estudios Britannia www.ingleszaragoza.com britingles@gmail.com
Paseo Teruel 34, pasaje interior,
Zaragoza, 50004
INGLES, ALEMÁN, FRANCÉS Y REPASOS CON NATIVOS
DESDE LOS 3 AÑOS.
976 212 835 685 976 016

enseñalia
expertos en teaching

Enseñalia Zaragoza
www.ensenalia.com
web@ensenalia.com

Cursos para adultos
y niños de todos los niveles en zaragoza y a distancia - Preparacion de exámenes oficiales

Gran Vía, 29, 50006 ZARAGOZA
976 221 676 976 225 015

CINEMA

RENOIR PLAZA DE ESPAÑA
María de los Ríos, 12 28008 MADRID

PRINCESA
Princesa, 3-5 28008 MADRID

RENOIR MALADARONDA
Avenida de España, 51 (zona de Majadahonda)
MALADARONDA, MADRID

RENOIR FLORIDA BLANCA
C/Florida Blanca, 135

RENOIR PRINCESA
Princesa, 3-5 Pasaje María de los Ríos
28008 MADRID

RENOIR LES CORTS
Església dels Dolors, 12 08020 BARCELONA

RENOIR PALMA
C/Impressora Eugenia, 4 07010
PALMA DE MALLORCA

USEFUL VOCABULARY THE BODY

THIS IS ANOTHER PART IN OUR SECTION ON USEFUL VOCABULARY.
THIS MONTH: THE BODY. ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Match the words

Match the words (1-10) to the pictures.

1. Nose
2. Forehead
3. Eyes
4. Eyebrows
5. Head
6. Chin
7. Arms
8. Foot / Feet
9. Chest
10. Back

2 Wordsearch

Now find these words in the wordsearch.

arms	eyebrows
back	eyes
chest	feet
chin	foot
forehead	head nose

3 Guess the word

Think of ways to describe the words above. See if your partner can guess the word from the clues.

IT'S A PART OF YOUR BODY YOU USE TO LOOK AND SEE THINGS WITH.

YOUR EYES!

THE BODY USEFUL VERBS & EXPRESSIONS

THIS IS ANOTHER PART IN OUR SECTION ON USEFUL VERBS AND EXPRESSIONS.
THIS MONTH: THE BODY.

SHAKE YOUR HEAD

TO MOVE YOUR HEAD FROM SIDE TO SIDE AS A WAY OF SAYING NO.

"I ASKED HER IF SHE WANTED A COFFEE AND SHE JUST SHOOK HER HEAD."

NOD YOUR HEAD

TO MOVE YOUR HEAD UP AND DOWN AS A WAY OF SAYING YES.

"I ASKED HER IF SHE WAS HAPPY AND SHE NODDED HER HEAD."

FROWN

WHEN SOMEONE "FROWNS", THEIR EYEBROWS COME TOGETHER AND LINES APPEAR ON THEIR FOREHEAD.

"HE FROWNE
WHEN HE HEARD THE QUESTION."

FOLD YOUR ARMS

WHEN YOU "FOLD YOUR ARMS", YOU CROSS THEM OVER THE FRONT PART OF YOUR BODY.

"HE FOLDED HIS ARMS."

TURN YOUR BACK TO SOMEONE

TO MOVE YOUR BODY SO YOUR BACK IS FACING SOMEONE.

"WHEN HE SAW ME, HE TURNED HIS BACK TO ME."

RUB YOUR CHIN

TO MOVE YOUR FINGERS OVER YOUR CHIN. PEOPLE OFTEN DO THIS WHEN THEY ARE THINKING.

"HE RUBBED
HIS CHIN AS HE THOUGHT
OF AN ANSWER."

RAISE YOUR EYEBROWS

TO MOVE YOUR EYEBROWS UP. PEOPLE OFTEN DO THIS AS A WAY OF QUESTIONING SOMETHING.

"WHEN I ASKED HER THE QUESTION, SHE RAISED HER EYEBROWS."

STRETCH

TO PUT YOUR ARMS OR LEGS OUT STRAIGHT AND TO TIGHTEN YOUR MUSCLES.

"SHE STRETCHED
HER ARMS AND LEGS
BEFORE STARTING
THE GAME."

What a Story!

Some famous untrue stories. By Patrick Howarth

1 Pre-reading

Look at pictures below. They are all connected to famous hoaxes (tricks). What do you think happened? How were people tricked?

2 Reading I

Read the article once and compare your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again. Then, read the sentences and choose the correct words.

- The two girls were playing in their garden / the park.
- They took photographs of the gnomes / fairies.
- Sir Arthur Conan Doyle believed the story and wrote a book / an article about it.
- In 1981 / 1918, the girls admitted that some of the photos were fakes.
- Victor Lustig tried to buy / sell the Eiffel Tower.
- Andre Poisson reported / didn't report Lustig to the police.
- Some people thought that the circles were made by aliens / monsters.
- Two / Three men from Southampton, England, claimed that they had made the crop circles.

4 Language focus

The Past Continuous

Look at this extract from the article, "In 1917, two young British girls were playing in their garden..." The writer has used a Past Continuous tense. Transform the following sentences from the Past Simple to the Past Continuous.

- They ate the food.
- She ran to work.
- They took a photo.
- They played football in the park.
- She wrote the e-mail.

5 Discussion

- Are there any famous hoaxes from your country? What are they about?
- What other famous hoaxes have you read about?
- Can you think of a hoax to play on people in your country? What would it consist of?

History is full of hoaxes – those invented stories that trick or fool others. Here are the stories of three of the most famous.

There are fairies at the bottom of our garden!

In 1917, two young British girls were playing in their garden in Cottingley, England, when they met some fairies. The girls, Elsie Wright (16), and Frances Griffith (10), took photographs of the fairies and many, many people believed that the photos were real, including Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the creator of Sherlock Holmes. Conan Doyle even wrote a book, called The Coming of the Fairies, in which he told the world that he was certain the photos were genuine. The photos remained a mystery for over 60 years until 1981 when the girls admitted that some of the photos were fakes – the fairies were cardboard cut-outs. However, Elsie continued to claim that one of the photos was genuine and that she and Frances had seen fairies.

Do you want to buy the Eiffel Tower?

In 1925, the Eiffel Tower was rusting and it was beginning to look old. This gave Czech conman Victor Lustig an idea of a way to make a bit of money. He pretended to be a French government official and offered the tower for sale to businessmen. Lustig arranged a secret meeting for six metal dealers at the famous Hotel de Crillon in Paris. He told them that the government would sell the tower to the highest bidder. After the meeting, he took the businessmen in a limousine to visit the tower. Finally, he told them that the plan to sell the tower was a state secret, and that they must not tell anyone about the meeting. One of the dealers, Andre Poisson, believed Lustig and actually paid him for the tower. When the hoax was revealed, Poisson was so embarrassed that he refused to report Lustig to the police. Lustig escaped to Vienna with Poisson's money. A month later he returned to Paris and tried to sell the tower a second time. This time he was unsuccessful.

What are these crop circles doing here?

In the late 1970s, lots of people in Britain were talking about some strange circles that were appearing in wheat fields around the country. The circles, known as crop circles, appeared suddenly overnight and no one could explain how they were made. Some people thought that the circles were made by UFOs landing in the fields. At first the circles were very simple, but soon they began to become more and more complicated. Years passed, but still no explanation was found. Finally, in 1991 two men from Southampton, England, claimed that they had made the crop circles. Doug Bower and Dave Chorley used pieces of wood, wire and rope to make the circles. To prove their claim, they created a twelve metre crop circle in only fifteen minutes. The whole thing had been an elaborate hoax. ✨

LET'S TALK ABOUT: Body language

Smile.

Touch/Scratch your nose.

Wink.

Lean back.

Lean forwards.

Yawn.

Maintain eye contact.

Cross your fingers.

Put your hands on your hips.

Tilt your head to one side.

Put your head in your hands

Bite your nails.

Useful Expressions

- He's smiling.
- She was leaning forward.
- He looks bored.
- She maintained eye contact.
- He gave me a firm handshake.
- She looked defensive.
- You're giving off very negative signals.
- He's got a harsh look on his face. ☹

Dialogue

IN THIS DIALOGUE, REECE IS TELLING BETH ALL ABOUT A COURSE ON BODY LANGUAGE THAT HE WENT ON.

Reece: I've just finished this course on body language.

Beth: Oh, yeah.

Reece: Yes, it was really interesting. I learnt all sorts of useful things.

Beth: OK.

Reece: Yes, well, if someone touches their nose while they're talking, it's a sign that they're lying.

Beth: Right.

Reece: And if they're biting their nails, they're nervous or worried about something.

Beth: Ah, huh.

Reece: And if they fold their arms across their chest, it means they feel threatened and they're being defensive.

Beth: Right.

Reece: And if they lean forward, it means they're interested, and if they lean back in their chair, it means they're feeling very relaxed and confident.

Beth: And what does it mean if someone yawns really loudly, just like I did.

Reece: Oh, they didn't tell us about that.

Beth: Well, I'll tell you. It means that someone is really, really, really bored.

Reece: Oh, right. I'll have to make a note of that one.

Beth: Yes, please do. ☺

SHUSH! I'M CONCENTRATING.

MMM... DELICIOUS!

FUNCTIONAL LANGUAGE

The Telephone (part IV) Passing on Information

Asking for information

- What was the nature of the call, please?
- What was it regarding?
- What is the call in connection with?

Giving details

- It's about the ad in the paper.
- I'm calling to confirm the meeting for tomorrow.
- It's with regard to the advert in the local paper.
- I was calling up about the job advert.
- It was regarding the conference.
- I'm calling about the computer offer I saw advertised in The Guardian newspaper.

Dialogue

IN THIS DIALOGUE, PAIGE IS CALLING UP ABOUT A JOB ADVERT.

Receptionist: Good afternoon. Schilling Lifts. How may I help you?

Paige: Oh, good afternoon. I was calling up about the ad in the paper.

Receptionist: Which ad would that be? It's just that we have a number of classified ads running at the moment.

Paige: It was regarding the ad for the sales executive.

Receptionist: OK. Did you send a CV?

Paige: Yes, I sent it to the address that appeared in the ad, but I didn't hear back. I was just wondering whether the position was still available.

Receptionist: Yes, it is. If you send the e-mail directly to Ms Jones, the head of Human Resources, I'm sure she'll get back to you as soon as she can.

Paige: OK. No problem. Could you give me her e-mail address, please?

Receptionist: Yes, it's zara.jones@schillinglifts.com

Paige: So, that's zara.jones@schillinglifts.com, isn't it?

Receptionist: Yes, that's it. Bye, and have a nice day.

Paige: Thanks. Bye. ☺

BURLINGTON ENGLISH

BurlingtonEnglish is a unique learning programme which offers an interactive online course. Students can...

- do the online course in combination with a telephone class with a Hot English Language Services teacher*.
- combine the course with a one-to-one private class with a Hot English Language Services teacher.
- complete the course alone as an online, self-study course.

* Experienced, qualified native-English teachers.

Try our new voice recognition system!

- improve your spoken English
- improve your fluency
- learn grammar and specialized vocabulary

GENERAL ENGLISH COURSES

SPECIALIZED ENGLISH COURSES

Check our courses at www.burlingtonenglish.com

Contact the Hot English Language Services offices to get your 5% discount on all of the above mentioned courses.

0034 91 543 3573 skype:hotenglish2010 business@hotenglishmagazine.com

Refer to unit 14 of the Pre-Intermediate Skills Booklet for more explanations and exercises.

DR FINGERS' ERROR CORRECTION CLINIC

IN THIS SECTION, DR FINGERS IDENTIFIES AND CORRECTS TYPICAL ERRORS.

1 Activity

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

Read the sentences, find the errors and correct the sentences. Then listen to the CD to check your answers. Good luck!

- There isn't many milk in the fridge.
There isn't much milk in the fridge.
- There aren't much chairs in the room.
- Are there much pens on the table?
- Are there much sugar in the coffee?
- There not is much salt in this food.
- We don't have a much of money.

SKILLS BOOKLET LISTENING

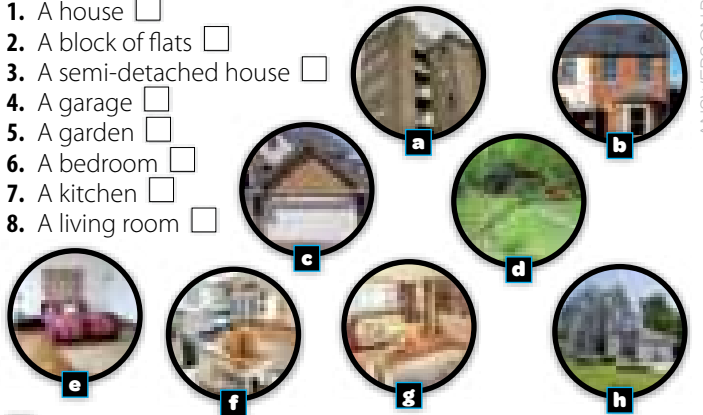

1 Pre-listening

1H 2A 3B 4C 5D 6E 7F 8G

Match the house/home-related vocabulary (1 to 8) to the pictures (a-h).

- A house
- A block of flats
- A semi-detached house
- A garage
- A garden
- A bedroom
- A kitchen
- A living room

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

2 Listening I

You are going to listen to someone who wants to buy a flat. Listen once. Which words from the Pre-listening activity do you hear?

3 Listening II

Listen again. Then, choose the correct answers.

- How many children has she got? 3 / 4.
- How many bedrooms does she want? 4 / 5.
- Where does David work? At Cambridge University / a bank.
- How much is the most expensive flat on the market for? £500,000 / £600,000.
- What is she going to do this weekend? Go to the theatre / opera.
- Does she want to buy a flat from this estate agent? Yes / no.

4 Language focus Superlatives

Look at this extract from the listening, "It was the smallest, dirtiest, nastiest little place I've ever been in." The speaker has used the superlative forms of several adjectives ("small-smallest; dirty-dirtiest; nasty-nastiest"). Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- The smallest animal I've ever seen was a/an...
- The dirtiest water I've ever swum in was in...
- The nastiest person I've ever met was...
- The best film I've ever seen was...
- The worst book I've ever read was...

5 Discussion

- What are the pros and cons of living in a flat?
- What are the advantages and disadvantages of living in a house with a garden?
- What do you like/dislike about your home?

hot english METHOD for Students!

Inspirational Education!

Up-to-date material linked to a structured course - a unique solution.

Students of English! Read this!

Learn English with the Hot English Method!

The Skills Booklets

Hot English magazine

The Hot English Method is a unique course that will motivate you to learn:

- Structure + up-to-date material.
- 4 levels (Pre-Intermediate to Advanced) with 18 units in each level.

See subscriptions page (43) for order form, call (00 34) 91 549 8523 or visit www.hotenglishmagazine.com for more information.

RESTAURANTE VEGETARIANO

Artemisa

Venecia de la Vega, 4 (Frente a las Cortes) TEL: 91 429 80 92 MADRID

Tres Cruces, 4 (Frente al Cemento) TEL: 91 521 87 21 MADRID

www.artemisa.com

Comida Vegetariana

GRAMMAR FUN

The Present Perfect Simple and Past Simple

THIS MONTH, WE'RE LOOKING AT THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE PRESENT PERFECT SIMPLE AND THE PAST SIMPLE.

Remember, we form the Present Perfect Simple with "have/has" and a past participle. For example:

- a) I've been to Scotland.
- b) He hasn't written a book.
- c) Has she flown a helicopter?

And we form the Past Simple with the past tense forms of verbs. These can be regular ("play-played") or irregular ("see-saw"). We use "did / didn't" to form negatives and the interrogative form with the Past Simple. For example:

- a) I went to Scotland.
- b) He didn't write a book.
- c) Did she fly a helicopter?

In general, we use the Past Simple to refer to things that are considered remote and complete, and with no connection to the present. We often use the following time expressions with the Past Simple: "two days ago, three months ago, last week" and "last night". For example:

- a) We went out last night.
- b) I saw him four days ago.

On the contrary, we use the Present Perfect Simple to refer to actions from the past, without mentioning when they happened. These actions often have some connection to the present. For example:

- a) I've broken my arm. That's why I can't play tennis.
- b) She has seen the film and would recommend that you see it too.

1 Exercise

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets. Use the Present Perfect Simple and the Past Simple.

1. I've ____ (be) to New Zealand. I ____ (go) there two months ago.
2. Jenny has ____ (speak) to her uncle. She ____ (speak) to him yesterday.
3. Bob has ____ (give) us the money. He ____ (give) it to us ten minutes ago.
4. The Bakers have ____ (arrive). They ____ (arrive) a few minutes ago.
5. Abigail has ____ (lose) her bag. She ____ (lose) it last night.
6. We've ____ (send) the e-mail. We ____ (send) it two days ago.

Have you got all the copies of Hot English?

Please call (0034) 91 549 8523,
SKYPE: hotenglishmagazine2010,
e-mail subs@hotenglishmagazine.com or send this form
NOW to: C/Paseo del Rey, 22 - 1st floor, office 1, Madrid 28008

TABLE OF PRICES (Standard magazine price 5.50€).

All magazines come with a CD.

Please tick here if you would NOT like to receive the free Hot English newsletter.

tick

5 back issues =	€25 (€5 per copy)	<input type="checkbox"/>
10 back issues =	€47.50 (€4,75 per copy)	<input type="checkbox"/>
15 back issues =	€67.50 (€4.50 per copy)	<input type="checkbox"/>
20 back issues =	€85 (€4.25 per copy)	<input type="checkbox"/>
25 back issues =	€100 (€4.00 per copy)	<input type="checkbox"/>

My details are:

Name: (write as clearly as possible) _____

Address: _____

City: _____

Postal code: _____

Telephone: _____

E-mail: _____

Age: _____

DNI/NIF: (only Spanish residents) _____

Profession: _____

Payment method Spain only

Cheque to Hot English Publishing S.L. (to our office address above)

Postal Order. The Post Office charges between €1,25 and €7,00 for contrareembolsos.

Direct debit (domiciliación bancaria):

Account number ____/____/____/____

Bank name: _____

Branch (sucursal): _____

Address: _____

Postal code: _____

Payment method Outside of Spain

VISA/Mastercard ____/____/____/____

Expiry date: __/__/__

For purchasers outside of Spain within Europe add 20€ for postage costs
For purchasers outside of Spain not in Europe add 30€ for postage costs

*For credit cards we charge an additional 2% to the total price

Choose from the following back issues with CD, please tick

This offer corresponds exclusively to the month in which this magazine appeared, if unsure call our office for more details - 0034 91 549 8523

Suits You

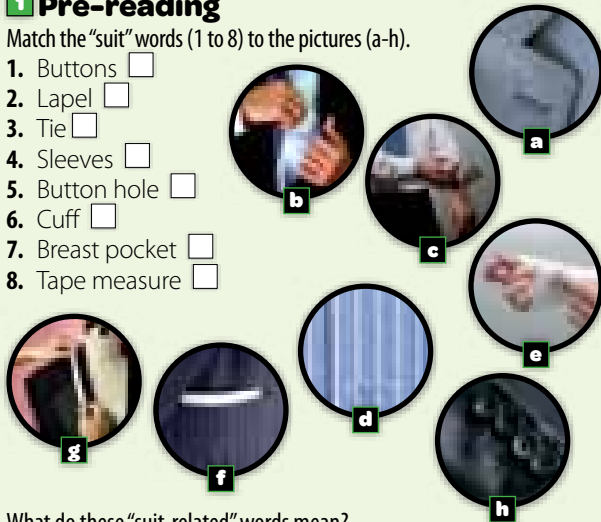

Exclusive clothing in the heart of London.

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Match the "suit" words (1 to 8) to the pictures (a-h).

1. Buttons
2. Lapel
3. Tie
4. Sleeves
5. Button hole
6. Cuff
7. Breast pocket
8. Tape measure

What do these "suit-related" words mean?

- cuff-links
- cloth
- shirt
- jacket
- belt
- trousers
- waistcoat
- tuxedo
- black tie
- braces
- single-breasted suit
- top hat
- pinstriped suit
- double-breasted suit
- wedding tuxedo
- morning suit
- tailcoat

2 Reading I

Read the article once. What is special about Saville Row and a Saville Row suit?

3 Reading II

Read the article again and answer the questions.

1. What do Winston Churchill, Lord Nelson, Prince Philip and Prince Charles have in common?
2. What is Saville Row also known as?
3. Where is Saville Row?
4. Which tailor is the Queen's dressmaker?
5. When did Nutters open?
6. Who have they made suits for?
7. Who has Ozwald Boateng made suits for?
8. How many hours of work go into making a suit?

4 Language focus Question tags

Look at this extract from the article, "They still make suits there, don't they?" The speaker has used a question tag ("don't they?").

Add question tags to these statements.

1. It's raining.
2. They live here.
3. She's got a dog.
4. They've eaten.
5. We'll go in ten minutes.

5 Discussion

1. Where do you buy your suits? Why? What do you look for in a suit?
2. How often do you use a suit? When? Where? Why?
3. Do many people wear suits to work in your country? Why? Why not?

Presenter: Hi, and welcome to the Fashion Show. In today's programme, we're talking to fashion expert Daisy Chain. Daisy, you're here to talk about suits, aren't you?

Daisy:

Yes, that's right. As you know, Paris is the fashion capital of the world, but London is the suit capital of the world! And one London Street in particular is where all well-dressed English gentlemen have their suits made: Saville Row. Winston Churchill had his suits made there and so did Lord Nelson. These days, Prince Philip and Prince Charles go there to have their suits made. Now, did you notice how I used the phrase "have their suits made" rather than "buy their suits"?

Presenter: Erm, yes.

Daisy:

Well, that's the thing. You don't simply buy a Saville Row suit, the suit is made for you... to your exact measurements. The businesses in Saville Row are tailors not clothes shops. They make clothes rather than just sell them. And they've been doing that for a long time.

Presenter: Saville Row is known as the "golden mile of tailoring". Why's that?

Daisy:

Well, it's because there are so many tailors there. As you probably know, Saville Row is in Mayfair, a wealthy district of Central London. It was a tailor called Henry Poole who became known as the Founder of Saville Row as he was the first to open a shop there at number 32 in 1846.

Presenter: They still make suits there, don't they?

Daisy:

Yes, that's right, although the shop has moved to number 15. Other famous firms include Gieves & Hawkes (at number 1), who make clothes for the Royal Family; Hardy Amies Ltd (at number 14), the Queen's dressmaker; and Norton & Sons (at number 16), who were Winston Churchill's tailors when he was a young man.

Presenter: But things have been changing recently, haven't they?

Daisy:

Yes, that's right. A number of new firms have moved into Saville Row. The first of these was Nutters of Saville Row, which opened in 1969. Nutters have dressed aristocrats such as the Duke of Bedford, but also rock stars such as Mick Jagger and The Beatles. You've seen the cover of their album Abbey Road, haven't you?

Presenter: Yes.

Daisy:

Well, on that picture, John, Paul and Ringo are all wearing suits from Nutters. A more recent arrival is Ozwald Boateng, a Ghanaian-born, British tailor. He's introduced the idea of Saville Row tailoring to a new generation, and his clients have included film stars Will Smith, Russell Crowe, Jamie Foxx and Keanu Reeves.

Presenter: The process of creating a Saville Row suit is quite complex, isn't it?

Daisy:

Yes, a Saville Row suit is "made-to-measure" – it's literally made to the measurements of the individual client. Then, the suit is handmade and at least fifty hours of work go into its creation. The client will have to visit the tailor's a number of times while the suit is being made for fittings. It's a long process but the finished suit will be beautiful and perfect. So, I'm sure you'd like to have a Saville Row suit, wouldn't you?

Presenter: I wouldn't mind.

Daisy:

Well, unfortunately, Saville Row suits are a bit expensive. For example, a Gieves & Hawkes made-to-measure suit can cost anything from €2,400 to €7,500!

Presenter: Mmm... That's a bit out of my price range. Anyway, thanks for coming in today, Daisy.

Daisy:

My pleasure. ☺

Watch & Learn!
Listen to two people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

READING

Pampered Pets

The perfect toys for beloved pets.

1 Pre-reading

Look at the names of pet accessories below (1 to 7).

What do you think they're for?

What do you think they do?

1. The Bow-Lingual Dog Translator
2. I-Paw
3. Arfmerican Barxpress Card
4. Doggone Doggy Thong
5. Petattoos
6. Happy Tail Ale
7. Bubble Buddy

2 Reading I

Read the article once and check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again. Then, write a brief description of each product from the Pre-reading activity.

4 Language focus

The Present Simple Passive

Look at this extract from the article, "...that plays songs when buttons are pressed." The writer has used a Present Simple Passive construction ("are pressed"). Transform the following sentences into the Present Simple Passive. Do not include the agent (the person who does the action).

1. They send the e-mails.
2. They clean the rooms.
3. They cut the paper.
4. They make cars.

5 Discussion

1. What do you think of these pet accessories?
2. Why do people love their pets so much?
3. Are people in your country so obsessed with pets? In what ways?

Have you got a pet? Are you thinking of buying one? You might consider getting one or two of these pet accessories.

Many pet owners like to speak to their pets. And many think their pets actually understand them. But do pet owners understand what their pets are saying? Well, now they can with the "Bow-Lingual Dog Translator". As the product blurb says, "It's a gadget that translates doggy talk into human words." Developed by linguistics experts (apparently), it can translate a dog's bark into one of six emotions: happy, sad, frustrated, on guard, assertive and needy. It then provides a phrase to represent what your dog might say if it could speak.

But that's not all. For doggy music fans there's the "I-paw". This is a sort of iPod for dogs that plays songs when buttons are pressed. And for dogs of a materialistic nature, there's the "Arfmerican Barxpress Card". As the advertising text says, "Give your pooch the power of unlimited spending." That's not quite true though (which is probably a good thing) as it's actually just a squeaky toy credit card.

However, from material things to "material thongs". After all, if people look good in thongs, why shouldn't dogs? So, there's the "Doggone Doggy Thong" for those owners who want their four-legged friends to look their best on the beach. And for those who want their dogs to really stand out, the latest must-have is "Petattoos". Yes, you've guessed it – tattoos for pets. They're not permanent like real tattoos, but they do last long enough for your pet to make a complete fool of itself... although it doesn't say that in the blurb.

Feeling thirsty? These days you can share a beer with your pet. That's right, man's best friend can now also be his drinking buddy. "Happy Tail Ale" is a beef-flavoured beer for dogs. It's non-alcoholic (apparently) so your dog can enjoy a cold one without developing a habit... or a hangover.

Who doesn't want their pet to be clean and smell good? The "Bubble Buddy" will help with that. It's similar to the popular children's toy the water pistol, but this gun fires soap bubbles that are chicken or bacon flavoured. Of course, the animals will quickly figure out that they can't actually eat them. As one owner wrote on an Amazon.com review, "My dogs looked at me like I was stupid when I tried to play with this." Ah, the simple wisdom of animals.

So there you have it, just a few of the wackiest pet accessories out there. I haven't even mentioned the $3,000 crystal-studded Swarovski dog dress. But wait a minute! $3000 for canine clothing? I think I need a swig of "Tail Ale"! ☘

GLOSSARY

- a pet n
an animal you keep at your home
- an accessory n
extra things that are not really important, but can make an activity easier / more enjoyable, etc.
- an owner n
the person who has/possesses something
- the blurb n
the advertising text that is often printed on the packaging for a product
- on guard exp
if an animal is "on guard", it is ready to defend itself or attack someone
- needy adj
if someone is "needy", they need emotional support / love, etc.
- a pooch / a four-legged friend exp/inform a dog
- to look your best exp
if you "look your best", you look attractive / neat / nice / smart, etc.
- to stand out phr vb
if someone "stands out", everyone notices them because they are different
- to develop a habit exp
if you "develop a habit" for something, you start to do that thing a lot
- a hangover n
a feeling of sickness and/or a pain in the head after drinking too much alcohol
- to figure out phr vb
if you "figure something out", you start to understand it
- wisdom n
if someone has "wisdom", they have a lot of knowledge that they have accumulated over the years
- wacky adj
strange and unusual
- a swig of n
if you have a "swig of" a liquid, you drink a small amount of that liquid

READING II

Fighting Fun

Forms of hand-to-hand combat from around the world. By Sam Gordon

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading discussion

Match the forms of fighting (1 to 6) to the countries where they are mostly practised (a-f). What does each form of fighting involve?

1. Sumo
2. Lucha-libre
3. Wrestling
4. Oil-wrestling
5. Schwingen
6. Glima

2 Reading I

Read the article once to check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again and answer the questions.

1. What was Big Daddy's real name?
2. What would the crowd chant as Big Daddy finished off his opponent?
3. Who do wrestlers in Turkey train?
4. What do wrestlers try to grab during wrestling matches in Iceland?
5. What's another name for Swiss wrestling?
6. What do Mexican wrestlers wear over their faces?

4 Language focus

The use of "would" in the past

Look at this extract from the article, "He would finish opponents off with..." The speaker has used "would" + a verb ("would finish off") to talk about a repeated or habitual event in the past. Complete the following sentences with your own ideas. Remember, this construction is used to refer to repeated events (not just things that happened once).

1. When I was younger, we would often go to...
2. As a child, I would often...
3. My mum would often say...
4. My grandparents would often take me to...

5 Discussion

1. What types of sport do you like to watch on television?
2. Do you like watching any forms of wrestling or fighting? Why? Why not?
3. Have you ever watched or practised any of the sports from this article? Which ones? Give details.

Is fighting a popular sport where you're from? Just about every country has its traditional form of wrestling.

Fighting as a sport is practised all around the world. Wrestling in the UK and the US is more like a form of show business with its fake moves and over-the-top acting. One of the most famous English wrestlers was "Big Daddy". "Daddy" (whose real name was Shirley Crabtree Jr) was a wrestler in the 1980s. His main claim-to-fame was his enormous 160-cm chest. He would finish opponents off with a combination of the "belly-butt" (slamming his belly into an opponent) followed up by the "belly-splash" (jumping on top of his fallen foe). All of this would be accompanied by chants of "Who's the Daddy?" from the crowd. In the US, wrestlers such as "Hulk Hogan", "The Ultimate Warrior" and "The Undertaker" are big stars.

In Turkey, "oil wrestling" is one of the most popular sports. Wrestlers wear tight, short leather trousers and cover themselves with olive oil. As part of an age-old tradition, all wrestlers train apprentices. Then, when the master wrestler finally retires, his apprentice continues the tradition. In Iceland, wrestling is known as "Glima" and it's the national sport. Wrestlers have to wear a leather harness around the waist and thighs. During the fight, wrestlers try to grab the harness and throw their opponents to the ground. In Switzerland, the most popular form of wrestling is "Schwingen", which is also known as "Swiss wrestling" or "Hoselupf" (trouser lifting). It is practised indoors on wooden floors. As part of this sport, fighters wear special canvas trousers. In Japan, it's Sumo wrestling... and the list goes on.

No country is quite so "wrestling-mad" as Mexico. There, it's known as "lucha libre". Mexico has the largest number of professional wrestlers in the world. The style is similar to wrestling in the US, but the big difference is that wrestlers wear masks. In fact, masks are an essential part of Mexican wrestling and can be traced back to Aztec traditions. Sometimes, a fighter who is about to retire will be unmasked in their final fight – this signifies their loss of identity as a wrestler. With some of the best names in the world of sport (Super Crazy, Rey Mysterio, Último Dragon, El Glorioso and Último Guerrero, to name just a few), wrestling in Mexico is a serious business and champions are national heroes.

GLOSSARY

- wrestling n
a sport that involves fighting
- fake n
not real; not genuine
- a wrestler n
a sports person who practises wrestling (fighting)
- a foe n
an enemy/opponent
- tight adj
if clothing is "tight", it fits very closely to your body
- an apprentice n
a person who is training and learning how to do a specific job
- to retire vb
to stop working/participating in an activity, often because you are too old
- a harness n an object that consists of straps and metal links. It goes around a person's body, often to hold another piece of equipment or a rope
- the waist n
the middle part of your body
- a thigh n
the top part of your leg
- to grab vb
to take suddenly with your hands
- to lift vb
to move from a lower area to a higher area
- to trace back to exp
if A can be "traced back" to a particular period of history, A has its origins in that period of history
- to unmask vb
if someone is "unmasked", their mask is taken off and their face is revealed

There are basically two types of speaking: spoken production (simply producing words) and spoken interaction (speaking/conversing with other people). Both are important, but this month we're looking at spoken production.

Spoken production is all about producing language. It's about speaking clearly and correctly. It's your ability to pronounce words, use the correct stress and intonation and select words that are appropriate for your purpose. Spoken production activities include reading a written text aloud, speaking from notes, acting in a play, talking about your life, singing a song and telling a story. It may also include giving presentations, expressing arguments in a debate, giving a speech or making a sports commentary.

First, let's put speaking into perspective. Speaking in any language is difficult... even in your own language. In fact, if you listen to recordings of native English speakers, you'll be surprised at how "badly" many people speak spontaneously: there are examples of hesitation, false starts, mumbling, unclear language and even errors. Very few people can speak really well, and those who can, usually spend hours preparing and practising their speeches. The thing is that speaking "well" depends on a lot of factors: your motivation, your physical and mental state at the time of speaking, who you're speaking to, how well you know the topic, where you are, the time of day, and a hundred other things.

The way to improve your speaking is to practise. You could do some "shadowing". This involves copying native speakers who are speaking on audio or video recordings. Just get access to an audio file, put on your headphones, press play and start speaking at the same time as the native English speakers. This is a great way to improve your pronunciation. You could also do the same with songs, by singing along to your favourite songs. Another good technique is to read aloud. This will help you practise saying the words and expressions. Just get a copy of a text or book that you find interesting, and read parts of it out loud.

Repetition is also important. Repeat key sentences and expressions over and over again until they become automatic. Do some language fluency drills with your teacher to build up fluency. Memorise chunks of language or entire paragraphs. This will really help. A lot of the language we use when speaking consists of set expressions and chunks of language that are repeated. Also, practise telling your favourite stories or anecdotes. Write them out first. Then, make notes and practise saying them to yourself... and then in public. The more you practise them, the better you'll get at telling them, and soon you'll be a story-telling expert.

Speaking well requires practice, and a lot of time and effort. Are you ready?

Good luck! 🍀

for Academies

Inspirational Education!

Up-to-date material linked to a structured course - a unique solution.

Academy Licensing Opportunity -

The Skills Booklets

Hot English magazine

Who?
Academies / English training organisations... This is for you!
Academies with Pre-intermediate to Advanced-level students that are looking to keep students inspired, interested and motivated with up-to-date (monthly!) interesting and structured material.

Why?
The Hot English Method:

- Allows you to complete with rivals on something other than price.
- Reduces your costs as it's cheaper than a text book.
- Will ensure that your teachers always go to class well-prepared.
- Provides a breath of fresh air - up-to-date material based on real people.
- Will win you more business - it's innovative approach appeals to many.
- Gives all classes structure and direction through a clear syllabus and exams.
- Reduces the need for photocopies - students work from their magazine and Skills Booklets.
- Makes good teachers better through detailed Teacher's Notes, with less time spent planning.
- Will improve class attendance - guaranteed!

How?
The Hot English Method consists of two interlinked products: the Skills Booklets and Hot English magazine. Together, they provide up-to-date material and structure.

The Skills Booklets

Hot English magazine

For more information on how the Hot English Method can help your school, e-mail business@hotenglishmagazine.com or call (00 34) 91 543 3573
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

PHOTOMAGIC

PHOTOS OF THE MONTH FROM THE NEWS.

Photo 1 The Dalai Lama (the spiritual leader of Tibet) talks with US President Barack Obama.

Photo 2 Actor James Corden joins the Manchester United stars in an aerobic session for Sport Relief 2010.

Photo 3 Jennifer Aniston and Gerard Butler star in Columbia Pictures' action comedy The Bounty Hunter.

Can you think of anything to write in the speech bubbles? Have a competition in class or at home.

Refer to unit 14 of your Intermediate Skills Booklet for more explanations and exercises.

SKILLS BOOKLET LISTENING

Animal Charity

An interview with a member of an animal charity.

1 Pre-listening

Which words would you associate with an animal charity? Can you add any words to the list?

- habitat danger sanctuary nature reserve
- money safe poaching mammal donation
- protection cheese breeding zoo zoologist
- charity animal extinction species danger
- poacher export cage

2 Listening I

You are going to listen to an interview with someone who has set up an animal charity. Listen once. Which words from the Pre-listening activity can you hear?

3 Listening II

Listen again. Then, read the sentences and choose the correct options.

1. Their slogan is, "Oh, please, Be, Be, Be, Be, Be..."
a) generous b) happy
2. The male bandicoot has...
a) horns b) a tail
3. They are mammals which like to eat...
a) cheese b) fruit
4. They have been raising money to open a sanctuary in...
a) the country b) London
5. They hope to raise £1 million in order to buy...
a) a zoo b) a house
6. They have been trying to find a photo of a bandicoot for...
a) one week b) a couple of weeks

4 Language focus The Present Perfect Continuous

Look at this extract from the listening, "The British bandicoot's natural home has been disappearing over the past ten years." The speaker has used the Present Perfect Continuous ("has been disappearing"). Transform the following sentences into the Present Perfect Continuous.

1. They have eaten.
2. She has finished.
3. We haven't watched it.
4. He has run.
5. They have washed the car.

5 Discussion

1. What are the main animal charities in your country? Which animals are they helping to protect?
2. Which animals are in danger in your country? What is being done to help them?
3. Have you ever donated money to an animal charity? Why? Why not?

Outdoor fun in a fast-paced city. By Alexis Wynn

DENVER, COLORADO

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN A COMBINATION OF THE GREAT OUTDOORS AND A FAST-PACED CITY, DENVER IS THE PLACE FOR YOU.

Denver is known as the Arts Capital of the West. The Denver Art Museum (DAM) is the largest art museum between Kansas City and the West Coast. It's filled with amazing pieces including classics by Monet, Picasso and Matisse and more modern works by Warhol and O'Keefe, plus intriguing pieces from Africa and pre-Columbian America. Denver's Museum of Contemporary Art is another great museum.

THE COLORADO HISTORY MUSEUM

The DAM is also home to one of the greatest collections of Western art, including paintings, photographs and sculptures by Frederic Remington. The Colorado History Museum also has a great collection of western art, photographs and memorabilia.

Denver also has the famous Black Western Museum. This offers an eye-opening look into the part played by African-American pioneers. For more on Western art and culture, head out to the town of Boulder to see the fun (and free) Leavin'Tree Museum of Western Art, with an impressive collection of great pieces.

RED ROCKS PARK

Denver is great for outdoor adventure. Located at the foot of the Rocky Mountains, Denver is home to 14,000 acres of mountain parks which all include stunning scenery. The famous Red Rocks Park is about 20 kilometres from Denver. This mountain park is famous for its large red sandstone boulders. Many of these formations within the park have names including Seat of Pluto, Cave of the Seven Ladders, Creation Rock, Ship Rock and Stage Rock.

WINTER PARK RESORT

For skiers, there's the Winter Park Resort. It's one of Colorado's oldest ski resorts, and has over 3,000 acres of runs, and it's just 67 miles northwest of Denver. For a bit of water fun, there's the South Platte River, a major river of the west that runs straight through the centre of Denver parallel to its city streets. It serves as Denver's source of drinking water, as well as a place for fishing and kayaking.

Denver is a fun city too. It's got the nation's largest Cinco de Mayo celebration, and Denver Arts Week is one of the city's biggest and best annual events. It's a weeklong festival with visual and performing arts taking place at art districts, 20 museums and 100 art galleries. The trendiest part of Denver is LoDo (short for Lower Downtown), which is also the oldest part of the city.

Denver offers culture and nature in a unique setting. Go and try it for yourself. 🌟

DENVER TRIVIA

Denver was discovered in 1858 as a mining town during the Gold Rush. The city had a theatre before it had a school or a hospital.

Denver, the capital of the state of Colorado, is known as the Mile High City because it's exactly one mile above sea level (about 1,600 metres).

Denver is on the Great Plains and is considered a high-desert climate. It's one of the sunniest places in The United States, with about 300 days of sunshine, which is more than cities such as Miami (in Florida) and San Diego (in California).

The Denver Botanic Gardens is one of the top five botanic gardens in the United States.

Denver's American Football team, The Broncos, have been to the Super Bowl six times. They won back-to-back Super Bowls in 1998 and 1999.

Denver is the 24th most populous city in the US, with an estimated population of 598,707.

Denver locals have been known to find dinosaur fossils in their back yards.

One of Denver's icons is a 13-metre Blue Bear statue in The Colorado Convention Center. It was created by artist Lawrence Argent.

GLOSSARY

- fast-paced adj
dynamic; with an exciting atmosphere
- the West n
the areas (many of which were originally occupied by Native Americans) in the centre and west of America
- the West Coast n
the area of land next to the Pacific Ocean in the west of the US
- home to exp
if A is "home to" B, A has B in it
- Western n
referring to life in the American West
- a pioneer n
people who travel to a new area and start living there
- to head out to exp
to go to
- at the foot of exp
at the bottom of
- stunning adj
spectacular, very beautiful
- scenery n
the land, mountains, water, etc. that you can see around you
- a boulder n
a large, round rock
- trendy adj
fashionable
- the Gold Rush n
the Gold Rush refers to the discovery of gold in the 19th century. As a result, many people "rushed" (went quickly) to the area to try to get rich

LATE NIGHT SHOWS

WHAT DO YOU DO AT NIGHT? GO OUT? WATCH A FILM? READ A BOOK? IN THE STATES, LATE NIGHT TALK SHOWS ARE POPULAR

Late night talk shows follow a basic pattern. They often start with an announcer, who introduces you to the show's host and guests. As the host enters, the house band plays a theme tune that is often played throughout the show. The popular hip-hop group The Roots plays on Late Night with Jimmy Fallon, while Max Weinberg (the drummer of Bruce Springsteen's E Street Band) leads the band on Conan O'Brien's show, The Tonight Show.

THE ROOTS

Next it's the turn of the host. They usually make jokes about the news. Special sections usually follow. They often have something to do with the news. For example, Jay Leno, the host of The Tonight Show, has a section called "Headlines". He looks at funny stories in local newspapers and magazines. One headline from a wacky news story that he read out was, "Drunk Driver Claims Dog was Driving".

DAVID LETTERMAN

David Letterman, who hosts The Late Show, is famous for his "Top

Ten List." Al Pacino once explained jokingly that one of the top ten reasons he liked being an actor was because "you get to make films for personal reasons – I made Righteous Kill to let people know I'm still alive."

After a commercial break, it's the turn of the guests. They are often some of Hollywood's biggest stars. They come in, sit down next to the host and answer questions and chat. The audience gets to see what the celebrity is actually like, and the celebrities often come onto the show to promote their latest film or album. Meryl Streep, Jim Carrey and Denzel Washington have all been guests on late night shows. Political figures sometimes appear too. Michelle Obama and Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger have been on to answer questions. Senator John McCain was once asked by Jay Leno how he reacted to losing the presidential race to Barack Obama. McCain replied, "I slept like a baby: sleep two hours, wake up and cry, sleep two hours..." Many welcome an invitation to appear on the show because they attract such a wide range of viewers.

After the guests, there's some music or comedy sketches. Past performers include Radiohead, Beastie Boys and the White Stripes. Every now and then, up-and-coming bands and comedians perform, too.

One of the most famous late night shows is Saturday Night Live (SNL). Like other late night shows, SNL has several skits and music. The big difference is that the guests are also often the hosts of the show. Steve Martin holds the record for most appearances as a host, while other popular hosts include Chevy Chase, Tom Hanks, Alec Baldwin and Christopher Walken.

There is a feeling of making it in the business once you get onto a late night show. It's an achievement for the celebrity and a treat for the audience. No wonder they're so popular. 🍀

JAY LENO

WHAT ARE YOU DOING TONIGHT?

LATE NIGHT SHOWS:

Jimmy Kimmel Live! (00:05), Late Show with David Letterman (23:35), The Tonight Show (23:35), Late Night With Jimmy Fallon (00:35), The Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson (00:35), Last Call with Carson Daly (1:35)

GLOSSARY

- a late night talk show n a television programme that is on late at night. It often consists of a host and guests
- a host n a person who is in charge of a television programme and who interviews guests
- a guest n people who are invited onto a television programme and who are interviewed
- a house band n a musical group that plays music on a television programme
- a wide range of exp a big selection of
- a performer n a person who acts/sings/dances, etc. in front of a camera or an audience
- up-and-coming adj that is not famous yet, but may be very soon
- a skit n a short piece of comedy in which actors make fun of someone or events
- to make it exp if someone has "made it", they are famous and successful
- an achievement n something good that you have done or succeeded at, especially after a lot of effort
- a treat n something nice and special that you can enjoy

Jamie Foxx

Who's is your favorite comedian? Ben Stiller, Jim Carrey, Billy Crystal, Steve Martin, Bill Cosby, Eddie Murphy, Chris Rock, Woody Allen, David Schwimmer, Richard Pryor? One of America's top comedians is Jamie Foxx. But he's also a talented actor and singer.

Jamie Foxx's original claim to fame was in the popular comedy show "In Living Color", a sketch comedy series. One of his funniest creations was the character Wanda Wayne – someone so terrible that "no one wanted to be in the same room as her". For the part, Foxx put on women's clothing, make up and a blond wig. The humour came from Wanda's overrated opinion of herself, how she always had trouble getting dates, and how she scared off her men. Foxx had people rolling on the floor with this.

In 2004, Foxx amazed audiences with his star performance in the film Ray. The biopic was about the life of American blues singer Ray Charles. Foxx managed to become Ray Charles both physically and mentally. As a result, he won the Best Actor award in the 2005 Oscars. He also received a Golden Globe award (and many others) for his performance. But then it was time for a new surprise.

In 2005, Foxx released his hit album "Unpredictable". The album jumped to the top 10 with hits such as "Unpredictable" and "DJ Play a Love Song". It soon became one of the best-selling R&B albums of 2005.

"It's good to be surrounded by black folks. Black folks are music."
"I'd like to say I'm R&B's savior. Whether that's the truth or not, I'm definitely going out there with my mic... to declare, 'I am here to save R&B.'"

Jamie Foxx

Jamie Foxx was born Eric Marlon Bishop on 13th December 1967 in Terrell, Texas, USA. He's a successful comedian, singer and actor. He was the star quarter-back of his high school American football team. He has won an Oscar and a Grammy.

GLOSSARY

- a claim to fame exp
a reason for being famous
- make up n
coloured paint that people put on their faces to be more attractive
- an overrated opinion exp
if someone has an "overrated opinion" of themselves, they think they are much better than they really are
- to have trouble exp to have difficulty doing something
- a date n
a person with whom you can have a romantic evening
- to scare off phr vb
to frighten and make someone leave
- a biopic n
a film about the life of a famous person
- a hit album n
a very successful album
- R&B n
rhythm and blues – a genre of music with elements of hip hop
- a pro athlete n
a professional sports person
- to come calling exp
if an opportunity "comes calling", it presents itself to you
- to have the ride of your life exp
to have a great time
- a mic n
a microphone – an object that singers hold and sing into in order to amplify their voices
- a Grammy n
the "Grammy" awards are presented annually by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences for achievements in the music industry

Much more than the lovable Rachel of Friends. By Alexander Olya

Watch & Learn!
Listen to two people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

Jennifer Aniston

Full name: Jennifer Joanna Aniston

Date of Birth: 11th February 1969.

Place of Birth: Sherman Oaks,
California, USA

JENNIFER ANISTON

You may know her from her portrayal of Rachel Green in the television series Friends. Maybe you have seen her in movies such as Along Came Polly (2004) and Bruce Almighty (2003). Perhaps you know her simply as the ex-wife of Brad Pitt. One thing is certain, Jennifer Aniston is one of the most recognisable faces in the world of entertainment.

Aniston's big break came with her role in Friends. She auditioned for a part in the sitcom in 1994. She got it and the series became a huge success, running for ten seasons. By the final season, Aniston was earning about $1 million per episode. She soon became one of the richest women in the entertainment industry.

Since the end of Friends, Aniston has starred in a number of successful films. These include Marley & Me (2008) with co-star Owen Wilson, and He's Just Not That Into You (2009), another romantic comedy co-starring Scarlett Johansson and Ben Affleck. She has three movies that are set to premier in 2010: The Bounty Hunter, The Baster, and The Gorie Girls.

Aniston often appears in celebrity gossip magazines. She's famous for having been married to Brad Pitt before he moved on to his relationship with Angelina Jolie. Rumours surfaced that the break-up was over whether or not to have children, although Aniston later claimed those rumours were false. After her divorce, Aniston had relationships with Vince Vaughan, her co-star in the movie The Break-Up (2006), and singer/songwriter John Mayer. Rumours that Brad Pitt and Jennifer Aniston are about to get back together have been firmly denied. 🍀

trivia

Jennifer Aniston worked as a waitress in order to earn extra money before she did Friends.

She has been nominated five times for an Emmy, winning once for "Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy Series".

She met Brad Pitt on a blind date.

The Guinness World Records lists her as the highest-paid television actress of all time along with her female co-stars through her role in Friends.

She is also a talented artist and had one of her paintings displayed in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

quotes

"I've learned that you can get through things that hurt. Nothing will kill you. Nothing. People are unbelievable. We have such resilience."

"When somebody follows you 20 blocks to the pharmacy, where they watch you buy toilet paper, you know your life has changed."

"It's impossible to satisfy everyone, and I suggest we all stop trying."

"The greater your capacity to love, the greater your capacity to feel the pain."

"Once you figure out who you are and what you love about yourself, I think it all kind of falls into place."

"The first time I kissed Brad my knees went weak – I literally lost my breath!"

"We're all with Friends until Friends dies. If one of us goes, we all go. One of us wouldn't leave. It wouldn't be the show it is without each of us."

GLOSSARY

the world of entertainment n
the industry that produces theatre plays, music, films, TV shows, etc.

a big break exp
an important opportunity for success to run for exp

if something "runs for" X months, it lasts for X months to premier n

to appear on the TV or in the cinemas for the first time to move on to exp

if you "move on to" something new, you start doing that new thing

a break-up n a separation

to get back together exp
if two people "get back together", they start a relationship again

an Emmy n an annual award by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for outstanding achievements in television

a blind date n
a romantic evening with someone you have never seen or met before to get through exp

if you "get through" a bad experience, you are OK at the end of it resilience n

if someone has "resilience", they have mental or physical strength

to figure out phr vb
to discover

to fall into place exp
if things "fall into place", they become clear and easy to understand

BOUNTY HUNTERS

IT'S A JOB THAT EXISTS IN JUST TWO COUNTRIES – THE US AND THE PHILIPPINES. BOUNTY HUNTING IS ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST UNUSUAL PROFESSIONS.

bounty hunter's main job is to capture fugitives. For example, when someone gets arrested for a crime, they often have to wait for months before it's time for their trial. During this time, the defendant may have to stay in prison. However, if they aren't considered dangerous, the judge may set bail – an amount of money that must be paid if the defendant wants to avoid waiting in prison. In many cases, a bail agent (also known as a "bail bondsman") is contracted by the family or friends of the defendant to pay the amount. Together they write a bail bond. This gives the defendant permission to leave prison. However, the defendant mustn't leave the state or the country, and must go to court on the days established by the judge. If the defendant disappears, he or she becomes a fugitive (also known as a "bail jumper"). And when this happens, the bail agent could lose a lot of money as the bail agent must pay the total amount of bail if the fugitive never appears in court. Now, this is where the bounty hunter enters the picture.

It's the bounty hunter's job to find the defendant or the bail agent will lose money. Most times it's just a question of making a phone call because the defendant has forgotten about the trial and just needs reminding. However, other times they've gone missing and are probably on their way to the Mexican or Canadian border. The bounty hunter (also known as a "bail enforcement agent" or "fugitive recovery agent") must find the fugitive and bring them back... preferably alive.

The bounty hunter has to work quickly. They will check up on the fugitive's friends, family and work colleagues to try to find a lead. They may also get in touch with underground criminal movements to see if anyone has any information on the fugitive. Sometimes they get lucky, other times they have to be patient. A background in law enforcement is not necessary, but it helps because fugitives may be armed and unwilling to cooperate.

Making the arrest is the most dangerous part of the job. In some cases, the fugitive has no intention of returning to the criminal justice system. They may face the prospect of a life in prison – and will do anything to avoid that. The bounty hunter has to prepare the ground carefully so the arrest can be made as smoothly as possible, and the fugitive can be taken into custody without too much violence.

One of the most famous bounty hunters from the 19th century was John Riley Duncan (1850-1911). He was a Texas lawman who is most famous for his part in the capture of the outlaw Wes Hardin. Hardin (1853 to 1895) was a tough gunman who spent most of his life on the run after robberies and killings. He claimed to have killed 42 men, and his criminal career also resulted in the deaths of his brother and two cousins (who were hanged by a lynch mob seeking revenge for a Hardin killing).

Bounty hunter John Duncan was contracted to make the capture. In order to do this, he was recruited into the Texas Rangers in July 1877. The Texas Rangers were (and still are) a law enforcement agency with jurisdiction to track down fugitives and outlaws. Thanks to a tip-off, Duncan found out that Hardin and several of his accomplices had bought tickets for a train departing from Pensacola station. Duncan set an ambush and placed his men in strategic positions in the train and around the station. After a fight, Hardin was captured, but one of his companions (Jim Mann) was killed. Later, Hardin was transported by train back to Texas to stand trial. He eventually served 17 years in prison for his crimes. Years later, and after his release, he was killed after a confrontation over a game of cards (he was shot in the back of the head). Duncan ended his service with the Texas Rangers shortly after capturing Hardin, and spent the rest of his life as a bounty hunter, working mostly in Dallas.

One of the most famous bounty hunters of recent times is Duane "Dog" Chapman. He's even got his own television reality series "Dog the Bounty Hunter". The show follows Chapman as he tries to track down and capture fugitives. Chapman's series is on its seventh season and gives one of the most accurate accounts of being a bounty hunter.

It seems that the Wild West is still just as wild! 🌵

BOUNTY HUNTING TRIVIA

Bounty hunting is legal in the United States thanks to the 1872 US Supreme Court case (Taylor versus Taintor) which established that bounty hunters have rights to recover fugitives from the law. The bounty hunter is paid a portion of the bail money. In the United States, bounty hunters catch an estimated 30,000 bail jumpers every year.

Duane "Dog" Chapman was once arrested after crossing into Mexico in pursuit of an escaped convict.

One of the best-known bounty hunters in fiction is Boba Fett from the Star Wars film series. Like the bounty hunters of westerns, Fett is rough and merciless.

The bail agent charges for the service – usually 10 percent of the bond. So, for an $800 bond, they get $80. However, if the suspect doesn't appear, the bond agent has to pay the money. It's a risk, but there are rewards.

Bounty hunters in films and television.

HUNTERS

HOLLYWOOD HUNTERS

CHARACTERS PLAYING BOUNTY HUNTERS HAVE FEATURED IN MANY FILMS. HERE ARE A FEW OF THEM.

- GLOSSARY
- a bounty hunter n
a person whose job is to catch people who have escaped from the law. Literally, "bounty" refers to a reward, a gift or money
 - to capture vb
to catch
 - a fugitive n
someone who has escaped from prison or the law
 - a trial n
a legal process to decide if someone is innocent or guilty
 - a defendant n
a person who is accused of a crime
 - a judge n
a person whose job is to manage a trial and give advice on legal matters
 - to set vb
to fix/establish
 - bail n
money that a defendant must pay in order to stay out of prison while they are waiting for their trial
 - a bail agent n
a person who pays for a defendant's bail as part of a service
 - a bail bond n
a contract between a bail agent and a friend or family member of the defendant
 - to go missing exp
if someone "goes missing", they cannot be found
 - on your way to exp
going to
 - a lead n
an important piece of information or a clue that helps you discover something/someone
 - to get in touch with exp to make contact with; to speak to
 - armed adj
with a gun or other weapon
 - unwilling adj
if someone is "unwilling" to do something, they don't want to do that thing
 - an outlaw n
a criminal who is hiding from the authorities
 - a gunman n
a person who uses a gun to commit crimes
 - a lynch mob n
a group of people who want to kill someone, often in revenge for another killing
 - to recruit vb
if someone is "recruited" for a company/organisation, they are selected and persuaded to join
 - jurisdiction n
if someone has "jurisdiction" to do something, they have the legal right to do that thing
 - to track down exp
to find and catch
 - a tip-off n
a piece of information that helps you find/do something
 - an accomplice n
someone who helps another person do a job / commit a crime, etc.
 - to stand trial exp
if someone "stands trial", a court of law determines whether they are innocent or guilty
 - an operative n
someone who works for a government agency such as the intelligence service
 - a spaghetti western n a low-budget western produced by an Italian film company
 - a target n
a person that other people are trying to find or kill
 - a cover-up n
an attempt to hide something illegal

The Bounty Hunter (1954)

This western stars Randolph Scott as a bounty hunter. About a year after a violent train robbery, he's hired to find the three remaining killers. He tracks them down to the town of Twin Forks. In one scene, he's asked why he became a bounty hunter. As he's counting his cash reward he replies, "I'm counting the reasons, and they're ten short". The film is directed by André de Toth.

Wanted: Dead or Alive (1986)

This film was based on a television series that starred Steve McQueen. In the film version, ex-CIA operative Nick Randall (played by Rutger Hauer) is a bounty hunter. He's asked by his former employer to help track down a terrorist. But the terrorist is also looking for Randall. The film is directed by Gary Sherman.

For a Few Dollars More (1967)

This spaghetti western was directed by Sergio Leone. Clint Eastwood plays the "Man with No Name," a bounty hunter who is in competition with a rival bounty hunter (played by the actor Lee Van Cleef). Both men are in pursuit of "El Indio," a wanted fugitive.

Midnight Run (1988)

This action-comedy is directed by Martin Brest. Charles Grodin plays Jonathan "The Duke" Mardukas, an accountant being chased by the FBI, the mafia and bounty hunter Jack Walsh (played by Robert De Niro).

Domino (2005)

Domino stars Keira Knightley, Mickey Rourke, and Christopher Walken. It's directed by Tony Scott (Beverly Hills Cop II, True Romance) and is based on true-life bounty hunter Domino Harvey.

The Bounty Hunter (2010)

The action-comedy stars Jennifer Aniston as Nicole Hurly and Gerard Butler as bounty hunter Milo Boyd. Milo finds out that his next target is his ex-wife, Nicole, a reporter working on a murder cover-up. The film is directed by Andy Tennant.

WATCH THE BIGGEST MOVIES IN THEIR ORIGINAL LANGUAGE
Now in DIGITAL 3D

MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY

HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE SHIP THE BOUNTY? SEVERAL FILMS HAVE BEEN MADE ABOUT THE MUTINY THAT OCCURRED ON IT DURING A VOYAGE TO THE SOUTH PACIFIC IN 1789. BUT WHAT HAPPENED TO THE SURVIVORS?

The Bounty was part of the Royal Navy, Britain's fleet of ships. During the 18th century, life in the Royal Navy was tough. Voyages were long, sometimes lasting many years to far-flung places on the other side of the world. British sailors came into contact with different cultures and, on many occasions, there were hostilities. Conditions on ships were cramped and dirty, and ship commanders were often harsh. And in this atmosphere of cruelty, isolation and fear sailors sometimes rebelled against their superiors.

In 1787, the Bounty was prepared for a mission to the South Pacific. The crew was to set sail for Tahiti, pick up breadfruit plants and then head for the West Indies, to Britain's Caribbean slave colonies. The breadfruit plant is a type of tree that produces a lot of fruit. It is native to the Pacific but the tree generally grows successfully when introduced into other tropical regions. The plan was to transport this plant to the Caribbean colonies and use its fruit as a cheap source of food for slaves there. The idea was proposed by Sir Joseph Banks, a famous botanist and veteran of Captain James Cook's South Pacific voyages. Banks recommended Lieutenant William Bligh (another veteran of Cook's voyages) to lead the mission. Bligh was to be helped by John Fryer (the Sailing Master) and Fletcher Christian (the Master's Mate). On 23rd September 1787, forty-six men commanded by Bligh set sail for Tahiti from Spithead in the south of England.

The trip wasn't easy. The Bounty tried to enter the Pacific Ocean by sailing around Cape Horn at the southern tip of South America. But the weather was so bad that the ship had to turn back. Then, they sailed for the Cape of Good Hope (at the southern tip of Africa), and headed across the Indian Ocean. It took them almost a year to arrive in Tahiti but they eventually got there in October 1788. Then, they began their task of collecting the breadfruit plants. The crew lived on the island for the several months that they were there and some of them married native girls. All in all, the natives and English got along very well and it was a pleasant time for everyone. It was maybe too pleasant, and this may explain what happened next.

On 4th April 1789, the ship's crew, their new wives and some other Tahitians set sail for the Caribbean. They travelled west for almost a month until they were close to a small island called Tofua. It was here, on 28th April 1789, that several men led by Fletcher Christian entered Bligh's cabin and took control of the ship. The mutiny was bloodless and just under half of the crew joined the rebels. No one is really sure why they did this. In films, Bligh is often portrayed as a cruel commander, though many historians disagree. In fact, when three crew members deserted on the island, Bligh had them flogged when the usual sentence for desertion was hanging. Later, these men were to play an important part in the mutiny.

Shortly afterwards, Bligh and his loyal crew members (except four who were forced to stay with Christian), were then put in a small boat and set adrift. It was a terrible journey. Bligh tried to land in Tofua but they ended up fighting with the natives who were hostile (one of the crew members was stoned to death). Then, they passed through the Torres Strait between Australia and Papua (also known as New Guinea). After 47 days, they arrived in Timor from where, after several more crew deaths, they returned to England. It is regarded as an amazing feat of seamanship as Bligh only had a watch and a sextant to navigate a seven-metre boat almost 7,000 kilometres. When he got back to England, he reported the mutiny. And in November 1790, the British sent HMS Pandora to look for the Bounty and the mutineers.

Meanwhile the mutineers were looking for a place to settle. They initially tried to live on an island called Tubuai, but the natives weren't friendly. They then returned to Tahiti. Things seemed to be going well, but a few months later, the Pandora arrived. Soldiers on board the ship arrested ten of the mutineers. However, Fletcher Christian wasn't one of them. He, along with several mutineers and a group of Tahitian men and women evaded the crew of the Pandora and escaped on the Bounty. It is alleged that Christian actually kidnapped the Tahitians by setting sail without telling them where he was going. The crew numbered 27 and included six Tahitian men, eleven women and a baby.

Unable to find Christian, the Pandora set sail for England. It ran aground on the Great Barrier Reef, off the east coast of Australia, and sank with the deaths of four prisoners and 31 crewmen. Eventually, in 1792, the remaining crew arrived back in Britain. After a trial, three of the mutineers were convicted and hanged.

Eventually, Christian and his group arrived at Pitcairn Island. This remote island lies halfway between Peru and New Zealand – right in the middle of the Pacific Ocean and about 4,000 kilometres from civilisation. This was to be their home. Within days of arriving, Christian burned the ship to prevent escape.

He became their leader but a conflict flared up between the Tahitians and the English. Christian and four other mutineers died, along with the six Tahitian men. But that wasn't the end of the violence. One of the surviving mutineers started brewing alcohol from a local plant and the subsequent drunkenness caused even more problems. Then, the women tried to escape and two more mutineers died. However, from about 1800, things began to settle down.

By this time, the only surviving mutineer was John Adams. He was the leader of a reduced group of women and children (many of whom were the children of other mutineers). He managed to create a stable and orderly society. They lived in the capital of Pitcairn, Adamstown, which is named after John Adams. The Royal Navy eventually caught up with Adams, but he was pardoned for his part in the mutiny.

And so the journey ended for the mutineers – participants in a daring and famous naval incident. These days, Pitcairn is a British Overseas Territory. The current population is about 50. They are mostly descendants of the mutineers and Tahitians, and they now live in one of the most isolated parts of planet Earth. ✨

THE PITCAIRN ISLANDS

A group of four volcanic islands in the South Pacific Ocean, approximately halfway between Peru and New Zealand, with a population of about 50 people. The islands consist of Pitcairn, Henderson, Oeno and Ducie, but only Pitcairn is inhabited. The only settlement is Adamstown, which is its capital. The current residents are mainly descendants of the crew of HMS Bounty and their Tahitian wives. However, it is thought that Polynesian people inhabited the Pitcairns several centuries before these people arrived in the late 18th Century. The islanders have their own creole language, Pitkern, which is a mixture of English and Tahitian. Just recently, Pitcairn was in the news. A scandal involving underage assault made the headlines in 2004 when the mayor, Steve Christian, went on trial along with six other men. The defendants claimed that the legal age of consent on the island was twelve years of age. A legal challenge was also made to Britain's authority over the islanders but this was dismissed. In the end, six of the seven defendants were convicted of some of the charges. Sentencing was lenient as a long-term sentence would have meant the end of Pitcairn society.

VICE-ADMIRAL WILLIAM BLIH

(September 9, 1754 – December 7, 1817)

William Bligh was the commanding officer of HMS Bounty during its famous breadfruit mission which ended in mutiny. He has been portrayed in film versions of the event by Charles Laughton and Anthony Hopkins. His nemesis, Fletcher Christian, has been played by Marlon Brando and Mel Gibson. Bligh has been historically painted as a cruel tyrant, and Christian as a heroic rebel, although this is now strongly contested. The 1984 film The Bounty, starring Anthony Hopkins and Mel Gibson is considered quite accurate and is much fairer to Bligh's memory. His seafaring skills have also been praised. In the wake of the mutiny, Bligh and 18 men loyal to him sailed almost 7,000 km to Timor in a small boat with only a watch and sextant for navigation. Although a lieutenant at the time of the mutiny, Bligh rose to the rank of Vice-Admiral.

THE MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY

A famous naval mutiny on HMS Bounty on 28th April 1789. Led by Fletcher Christian, the mutineers took control of the ship from Lieutenant William Bligh and evaded the British authorities. Some of the mutineers avoided capture by the Royal Navy and eventually settled on the isolated Pacific island of Pitcairn where they established a society.

GLOSSARY

- a mutiny n
a rebellion by a group of people (usually soldiers or sailors) against a person in authority
- a survivor n
someone who doesn't die in an accident/war/disaster, etc.
- tough adj
if something is "tough", it is difficult physically or mentally
- far-flung places n places that are very far away and far from civilisation
- hostilities n
if there are "hostilities", there is violence/war/fighting, etc.
- cramped adj
if conditions are "cramped", there is not much space
- harsh adj
cruel / unkind / strict / not nice
- to rebel vb
if soldiers or sailors rebel, they attack a person in authority or a government
- to set sail for exp
if you "set sail for" a place, you start travelling by boat to that place
- a slave colony n
a place / country where slaves (unpaid workers) worked on plantations
- a task n
a job you must do
- to lead vb
if someone "leads" something, they control and direct that thing
- to portray as exp
if someone is "portrayed as" cruel in a film, they are shown to be cruel
- to desert vb
to leave a job without permission
- to flog vb
to whip (to hit with a piece of leather/rope, etc.)
- to set adrift exp
if a ship is "set adrift", it is pushed into the water with no (or very little) means of controlling it
- to end up phrvb
if someone "ends up" doing something, they do that thing in the end
- a feat of exp
an excellent example of something that is difficult to do
- seamanship n
the ability to sail and navigate skillfully
- to settle vb
if people "settle" in an area, they start living there
- to kidnap vb
if someone is "kidnapped", they are taken as a prisoner. Money is often demanded for their safe return
- to run aground exp
if a ship "runs aground", it hits rocks and can't move
- to flare up phrvb
if violence "flares up", it happens quickly and suddenly
- to settle down phrvb
if things or people "settle down", they stop fighting and become more peaceful

Watch & Learn!
Listen to people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

READING I

All the Rage

Forms of anger while travelling. By Sam Gordon

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Look at forms of transport rage below. Can you think of examples to illustrate each one?
Road rage
Bus rage
Metro rage
Air rage
Train rage

2 Reading I

Read the article once and check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again. Then, answer the questions.

1. What examples of unusual behaviour in the air does the writer give?
2. What possible causes of transport rage does the writer offer?
3. What are some companies/ organisations doing to deal with transport rage?

4 Language focus The Second Conditional

Look at this extract from the article, "...50% of all drivers would retaliate if they were the victim of aggressive or bad driving." In this example, the speaker has used a Second Conditional construction: "If" + a past tense verb / "would" + an infinitive. Complete the following sentences with your own ideas.

1. If someone beeped their horn at me, I would...
2. If someone tried to ram me off the road, I would...
3. If someone were tailgating me, I would...
4. If someone cut me off while I was driving, I would...
5. If someone took my seat as I was about to sit down on the metro, I would...

5 Discussion

1. Have you ever witnessed any instances of transport rage? What happened?
2. Why do you think people get so angry when travelling?
3. What can be done to reduce transport rage?

Is road rage a big problem in your country? These days, it exists all over the world. But now there are other forms of transport rage.

The term "road rage" was invented in the USA during the 1980s. It can be defined as aggressive or rude behaviour by the driver of an automobile. The most common examples are beeping horns, abusive gestures, tailgating or cutting people off. However, there have been many more serious incidents including punch-ups and ramming. One recent survey revealed that 50% of all drivers would retaliate if they were the victim of aggressive or bad driving.

Air rage is another form of transport anger. Again, it can take many different forms, from the person who starts throwing ice cubes around the cabin when they're refused their fourth cocktail, to the passenger who tries to open the emergency doors mid-flight. There are also stories of crew members losing their tempers and pilots bursting into tears at 10,000 metres. Celebrities are susceptible to air rage too. Naomi Campbell ended up in court after assaulting police officers when British Airways lost one of her bags. And Gillian Anderson (X-Files), Anna Kournikova and Courtney Love have all been in the news after their mid-air tantrums.

These days, new forms of transport rage are starting to emerge. "Metro rage" (or "Tube Rage" as it's called in England) is also increasing, as is "train rage". In a recent report, London's train commuters were described as "utterly ruthless" and "dog-eat-dog". There have even been instances of "bus rage". The most serious case so far involved a bus driver who was prosecuted for ramming a cyclist off the road.

So, why do people get so angry when they're travelling? There are several theories. According to a recent article, road rage is caused by "intermittent explosive disorder", a condition that causes occasional outbursts of anger. Others blame crowded roads, traffic jams, bad driving and being stuck in a confined space for long periods of time. On planes, changes in air pressure can trigger psychological changes. Other people blame the lack of oxygen, as well as cramped seating, claustrophobia and long queues at check-in. Alcohol is also a factor. In fact 63% of all "air rage" incidents involve drunken passengers.

Many organisations are trying to deal with the phenomenon of transport rage. Airlines teach cabin crew self-defence. Railway staff in England are given courses in "conflict avoidance", and have 24-hour telephone help-lines so they can cope with the stress of dealing with "rail rage". And in the London Underground there are constant warnings against assaulting members of staff. So, it seems that even though we can travel wherever we want these days, we get much more irritated doing so. Perhaps we should all remember the old saying, "Getting there is half the fun." So, just sit back and try to enjoy the ride... if you can.

It seems that these days, however we get from A to B, more and more of us are getting mad doing it. ☺

GLOSSARY

- beeping horns n
a horn is an object in a car that "beeps" (makes a noise) when you press it.
- a gesture n
a movement you make with your hands or another part of your body
- to tailgate vb
if someone is "tailgating" you, they are driving very close behind you
- to cut someone off exp
if a driver "cuts you off", they drive in front of your car suddenly
- a punch-up n
a physical fight often involving punching (hitting with a closed fist)
- to ram vb
if A tries to "ram" B off the road, A uses their car to push B off the road
- to refuse vb
to say that you won't do something
- crew members n people who work on a plane/ship (stewards, stewardesses, etc.)
- to lose your temper exp to become angry quickly and suddenly
- to burst into tears exp to start crying suddenly and a lot
- susceptible to exp
if someone is "susceptible to" something, they are easily influenced or affected by that thing
- a tantrum n
if someone has a "tantrum", they get angry very suddenly, often because they can't have what they want
- a commuter n
a person who travels to and from work on a regular basis
- utterly ruthless exp
with no thought / sympathy / pity / consideration for other people
- dog-eat-dog exp
"dog-eat-dog" people are very competitive and ruthless
- an outburst of anger exp
if there is an "outburst of anger", someone gets angry very quickly and suddenly
- to trigger vb
if A "triggers" B, A causes B to happen
- cramped adj
if conditions are "cramped", there is very little room/space
- to cope with phr vb
to deal with; to manage

READING II

To the Manner Born

When it comes to being polite, the English are the champions. By Sam Gordon

THIS IS THE SECOND PART IN OUR SERIES ON MANNERS. THIS MONTH, THE ENGLISH AND THEIR MANNERS.

Watch & Learn!
Listen to people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

What would you do/say in the following situations?

1. You arrive in a shop and there's a queue to get served.
2. You want to talk to a colleague. You ask if he/she has a minute.
3. You are in a restaurant. Your fork is dirty.
4. You are in a corridor. There are lots of people there. You need to get past.
5. Someone bumps into you in the street.
6. You are in a shop. You'd like a packet of crisps.

2 Reading I

Read the article once and compare your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again and say what the author thinks an English person would do/say in each of the situations from the Pre-reading activity.

4 Language focus Requests

Look at this extract from the article, "Could I have another fork, please?" In this example, the speaker has used "could" to make a request. Complete the following requests with your own ideas.

1. Could you help me with...?
2. Would you mind lending me...?
3. Could you tell me where...?
4. Excuse me, do you know what time...?
5. Would you mind not...?

5 Discussion

1. Are people good at queuing in your country? What queuing etiquette is there?
2. Do people use "please" and "thank you" a lot in your language? Why is that?
3. What's your definition of the word polite?

The English are famous for their manners. The phrase, "Manners maketh the man" was coined by Englishman William of Wykeham back in 1324. But they're just as important today. Books are written on the subject, advice columns in magazines tell people how to behave, and "finishing schools" still exist to ensure that young girls become young "ladies".

The best example of English manners is in their mastery of the art of forming a queue. It is a popular joke in England (the land of sporting failures) to say, "If only queuing was an Olympic sport, we'd win hands down." No one knows exactly how and when it started, but queuing plays an integral role in the English social make-up. School children are taught to queue for roll-call, assembly and lunch, and English people across the land form orderly queues at shops, banks, cinemas and bus-stops every day. The English obviously aren't the only people who queue, but they seem to do it better than anyone else. As one visitor said, "I have travelled across Europe, the Middle and Far East and nowhere have I seen the single-file queues which are formed in England." Perhaps it is best summed up by the humorist George Mikes who said, "An Englishman, even if he is alone, forms an orderly queue of one."

The English are also famously polite when it comes to language. Whereas many other nations are more direct in their communication, the English prefer a more indirect form of asking for things. For example, an American who wants to talk to a colleague might say, "Got a minute?"; however an English person will often use a more indirect means of requesting the chat, "Sorry to bother you, but would you possibly have a minute or so to have a quick chat if you don't mind, please?"

And in a restaurant, an American might say, "Waiter! Could I have another fork, please?"; whereas an English person would say, "Excuse me! I hate to be a bother, but would you mind awfully changing this fork, please?" Anyone who has seen a Hugh Grant film will recognise his portrayal of the bumbling Englishman and his fondness for indirect speech.

The English also love to apologise for things. When squeezing past someone, people say "sorry". And they'll apologise if you bump into them, "Whoops! Sorry! My fault." In fact, no one seems to say "sorry" as much as the English: "Sorry I'm late. / Sorry about the mess. / Sorry I forgot to call you last night. / I'm sorry you didn't get the e-mail." And so on. They also like to use "please" and "thank you" a lot. In a shop, they will say, "I'd like a packet of crisps, please. Thanks." When getting off a bus, English passengers say "thank you", British students thank their lecturers, and bosses often thank their employees for doing their jobs.

Anyway, thanks for listening, and sorry if we've taken up too much of your time!

More next month. ☺

GLOSSARY

to coin a phrase exp
if you "coin a phrase", you are the first person to use that phrase a finishing school exp

a private girls' school that teaches girls how to "behave" in society

a queue n
a line of people waiting to be served in a shop, etc.

to win hands down exp
to win completely and easily

a roll-call n
if someone takes a "roll-call", they read out names from a list to check who is there a portrayal of exp an actor's "portrayal of" a character is the way the actor acts and plays the character

bumbling adj
a "bumbling" person is often confused and disorganised and makes mistakes

a fondness for exp
if you have a "fondness for" something, you like that thing to squeeze past exp

if you "squeeze past" someone, you have to push them a bit in order to pass to bump into exp

if you "bump into" someone, you crash into them or hit them accidentally

a lecturer n
a teacher at a university or college

DR FINGERS' VOCABULARY CLINIC

Stupid People

This is another part in our mini-series on colloquial ways of referring to someone who is somewhat "lacking in intelligence" (i.e. "stupid"). Here's an example of this month's construction, "He isn't the quickest horse in the stable." This is an example of understatement – a way of saying something that suggests that the thing you are referring to is less important than it really is. So, in this case, instead of saying, "He's a slow horse," the speaker "understates" this fact by using more positive language and saying, "He isn't the quickest horse." And the "horse" and its speed are used as a metaphor for a person and their intelligence. So, a slow horse is a metaphor for a stupid person. OK, let's look at some more examples that follow this pattern.

Hotel Horror

Can you turn off the rain? and other such strange requests. By Patrick Howarth

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Look at the words below. They are all related to unusual requests that guests have made in hotels. What do you think the requests were?

temperature noise a tiger wine milk a bed sunlight a witch doctor rain an AK47 sharks

2 Reading I

Read the article once to check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again. Then, write the name of a hotel from the article next to each request.

1. Please cover up the windows with thick black cardboard.
2. Please arrange for some fake sharks to appear in the water.
3. Please find out how my girlfriend can transport her pet tiger to London.
4. Please cut the legs off the hotel bed.
5. Please fill up my bath with red wine.
6. Please get me a room where the sun sets at an angle of precisely 45 degrees to the right of the window.

4 Language focus Conjunctions

Look at this extract from the article, "...threatened to not pay the bill unless hotel staff managed to 'stop the rain'". The writer has used a conjunction ("unless"). "Unless" can be used to mean "except if..." Complete the following sentences with your own ideas.

1. I won't have time to finish this unless...
2. They won't accept this work unless...
3. There won't be enough time to get there unless...
4. She won't want to stay at the party unless...
5. I can't see how you're going to buy this unless...

5 Discussion

1. What's the most unusual request you've ever heard in your life?
2. What's the strangest request you've ever made?
3. What was the last request you made at work? What was the last request someone made to you at work?

You probably think that when there are problems in a hotel, it's the guests who are suffering. However, in many cases it's the guests who are causing the problems, and it's the hotel staff who are suffering as they valiantly try to deal with their clients' extraordinary requests. Recent surveys among hotel staff have revealed just how extraordinary some hotel guests' demands can be.

Predictably, many of the strangest requests involve changes to the room itself. For example, an American guest of the Hotel Puente Romano in Spain thought that the bed in his room was "too high", so he asked reception to send up someone from maintenance to cut the legs off. Another visitor to Spain found the weather too hot for his liking and asked staff at the Villa Padierna Thermas de Carratraca in Malaga to lower the temperature of his room to sub-zero temperatures so he could cool off. One visitor to The Ramsay Inn in Australia didn't want any sunlight in his room, so staff had to cover up all the windows with thick black cardboard in order to stop the light shining through.

Guests also seem to think that hotel staff can control nature. A guest staying at Honeymoon Petra Villas in Greece requested a room where the sun would set at an angle of precisely 45 degrees to the right of the bedroom's window. Meanwhile, an unhappy guest at a Spanish spa hotel asked the hotel to stop the noise of the sea because he found it irritating. Back in Australia another guest refused to pay the extra charge for her ocean view room at the Novotel Manly Pacific because it had rained all week. Indeed, the surveys showed that surprising numbers of hotel guests had threatened to not pay the bill unless hotel staff managed to "stop the rain".

Other requests are refused outright. An English guest of The Setai Hotel, Miami, asked reception staff to find out how his girlfriend could transport her pet tiger to London. A man staying at the Canberra Novotel wanted his bath filled up with red wine. And another man in the Ukraine wanted his bath filled with bottled milk (it had to be bottled). Meanwhile, a Las Vegas guest specified goat's milk. One guest asked a Beverly Hills hotel to find him replacement parts for his AK47 automatic rifle. A particularly eccentric man staying at The Parrot Cay in the Turks and Caicos wanted the hotel to play a trick on his wife to celebrate her 40th birthday. He requested the hotel to arrange for "fake sharks" to appear in the sea while he and his wife were snorkelling. The hotel couldn't help him.

However, the award for the most bizarre request must go to the man who asked Canberra hotel staff to find him an Aboriginal witch doctor who could help him grow back an arm he had lost in a motorbike accident. ✨

Watch & Learn!
Listen to two people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

QUIRKY NEWS & CORNY CRIMINALS

quirky news

Spelling Minister

Government minister admits the errors of his ways.

Are you good at spelling? Jim Knight, the Schools Minister in the UK, doesn't seem to be a very good speller, although he probably should be. Knight, 45, was left looking a bit silly after web users spotted a number of spelling mistakes on his blog. The university-educated MP is supposedly responsible for raising standards in schools. However, he appears to have a few problems with basic spelling rules.

"While my spelling is generally pretty good, I need to focus more on checking," the minister admitted. In one blog entry, he spells "received" with the "i" before the "e" ("r, e, c, i, e..."), and "maintenance" with "ai" instead of an "e" ("m, a, i, n, t, a, i..."). On another page he writes "persioners" instead of "pensioners", although he claims that this must have been a typo. Mr Knight was unavailable for further comment. ✨

Corny Criminals

Panther Stalking

Teens make police look stupid.

Two teens are in trouble after making fools of the police. "Last Saturday we were a bit bored, so we decided to play a trick on the police," said Gary Game, 15, one of the two youngsters. "So, we got this life-sized black panther that belongs to my sister. It's a stuffed toy, but it looks quite real.

Anyway, we put it near the trees at the back of the park. Once it was there, we hid in the bushes. Then, we phoned the police and told them there was a panther in the park. About ten minutes later, we heard a siren, and then two police cars turned up. Four police officers got out and started pointing at the "panther". They obviously thought it was a real panther because they kept their distance. Two of them had guns and another two were watching it through binoculars," Game added. The elite armed unit spent nearly an hour watching the beast – only to discover it was just a life-sized cuddly toy. "We are not amused," said police spokesperson Nigel Fall. "We saw the creature and identified it as a black panther. But after about an hour, my officers began to suspect they were the victims of a cat-and-mouse game when the panther didn't move as they started to approach it. In our defence, from a distance it really looked like a live animal," the spokesperson added. ✨

Riddles

CAN YOU SOLVE THESE?

- How many "peas" are there in a pint?
- I've got a skin and I'm very nice when I'm done. What am I?
- My tail is long, my coat is brown. I like the country and I like the town. I can live in a house or in a shed. When I come out to play, you are often in bed. What am I? ✨

GLOSSARY

- the Schools Minister n
the British minister who is in charge of education and standards at schools
- a web user n
someone who uses the web (the internet)
- to spot vb
to notice/see
- to raise standards exp
to increase levels of something
- pretty good exp
quite good
- a blog entry n
a page / news item / piece of text, etc. that is posted (placed) on a blog
- a typo n
a spelling mistake in printed material. A "typo" often refers to a word that is accidentally spelled incorrectly whilst writing quickly – not because the user didn't know how to spell the word
- to make fools of someone exp to do something that makes someone appear to be ridiculous or stupid
- to belong to someone exp
if something "belongs to" you, it is yours
- a stuffed toy n
a child's toy that is filled with a soft material or substance
- a bush n
a small tree
- to turn up phrvb
to arrive
- to point at exp
if you "point at" something, you hold your finger towards that thing
- to keep your distance exp to stay far from something, often because you think it is dangerous
- a cuddly toy n
a soft toy that children play with or may "cuddle" (hold in their arms as a way of showing affection, or for comfort)
- a cat-and-mouse game exp
a series of actions designed to provoke, play with, irritate or torment someone
- to approach vb
to go close to

Refer to unit 13 of your Upper Intermediate Skills Booklet for more explanations and exercises.

The world in 30 years' time.

1 Pre-listening

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

What do you think the world will be like in 30 years? Think of ideas for the following categories.

- work
- transport
- farming
- the environment
- the government
- music
- film
- technology
- mobilephones
- school
- food
- books
- TV

2 Listening I

You are going to listen to some people who are discussing what school food will be like in 30 years from now. Listen once to check and compare your ideas from the Pre-listening activity.

3 Listening II

Listen again and complete the sentences with the correct words.

1. I asked them what _____ there might be in school meals over the next 30 years.
2. For example, the food itself will be cooked by computer and served by _____.
3. ...lessons will be given by enormous super _____ that know everything.
4. I don't think canteen food will be terribly different in the _____.
5. I'm quite sure that someone going into a canteen in 30 years' time will find the food extremely _____.
6. In my school, the kids want egg and chips, beans on toast, _____.
7. If you give them _____ they won't eat it and it'll just be thrown away.
8. They want _____ and chips and that's what I'm going to give them – computer or no computer.

4 Language focus Future Passives

Look at this extract from the listening, "Many think that everything will be automated." In this example, the speaker has used a Future Passive construction "will be" + a past participle ("will be automated" in this example). Transform the following sentences into the Future Passive.

1. They will send the documents.
2. They will record the song.
3. They will pay the bill.
4. They will frame the picture.

5 Discussion

1. Do you think the world will be a better place in 30 years? Why? Why not?
2. What political events will take place over the next 30 years?
3. What will your country be like in 30 years?

HERE'S ANOTHER CLASSIC BUT SIMPLE DISH FROM OUR RESIDENT FRENCH COOKS, TIPHAINE AND PAULINE.

Tuna Pasta

THIS DISH IS DELICIOUS, SIMPLE TO MAKE AND VERY CHEAP. IN THE UK, VERSIONS OF IT (USUALLY MORE BASIC ONES) ARE FAVOURITES WITH UNIVERSITY AND COLLEGE STUDENTS.

Ingredients

- Two tins of diced tomatoes.
- Three tins of anchovies.
- Two tins of tuna fish.
- One large onion.
- One tin of black olives.
- A small bottle of capers.
- Chilli peppers (optional).
- Three cloves of garlic.
- A packet of spaghetti or vermicelli.
- Olive oil.
- Salt and pepper.
- Parsley.

Preparation

Put the chopped garlic, onions and anchovies in a frying pan with a little olive oil and cook until the onion starts to brown. Add the chopped chilli peppers (optional), black olives, capers, tuna fish and tomatoes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Allow the sauce to simmer for about 20 minutes. Meanwhile, boil some salted water for the spaghetti or vermicelli. When the spaghetti is ready, pour the sauce over the top and sprinkle chopped parsley over this. Enjoy your meal! ☆

GLOSSARY

- a tin n
a metal container for food
- to brown vb
when food starts to "brown", it changes colour as it is cooking and becomes brown
- to sprinkle vb
if you "sprinkle" food over a dish of food, you put an amount of that food over the top of the dish
- chopped adj
cut into very small pieces

THE UNFORTUNATE

YOU'VE PROBABLY HEARD OF THE ARMADA – THE FLEET OF SHIPS SENT BY SPAIN TO INVADe ENGLAND. BUT WHAT HAPPENED TO THE SURVIVORS OF THE ILL-FATED EXPEDITION? IT'S A STORY OF BRAVERY, ADVENTURE AND TRAGEDY.

The Armada set off from Spain en route to England in 1588. About 130 ships of the "Great and Most Fortunate Armada" set out to overthrow Queen Elizabeth I, the Protestant ruler of England and a rival of Spain. The plan was devised by King Phillip II of Spain. The idea was for the Armada to pick up 30,000 soldiers stationed in the Spanish Netherlands. From there, they were going to invade England and smash its influence in Europe and the New World. However, the English defeated the Spanish in the Battle of Gravelines by attacking the fleet with fire ships. The Spanish ships were then chased up the east coast of England as far as Scotland. They now faced a long and dangerous journey home through the North Atlantic with an additional danger: the rugged west coast of Ireland. The battle was over but their problems were only really beginning.

The idea was to sail well clear of the rugged Irish west coast. However, sea currents and the winds were against them, and when the fleet was close to Rockall, a tiny north Atlantic island, some of the ships broke off. Most of the Armada consisted of merchant ships converted for the war and they had only been used in the Mediterranean Sea, which was much calmer than the stormy and freezing Atlantic. As a result, many of the ships were taking on water and repairs were necessary. So, some headed to the coast of Ireland. Others were pushed onshore by the strong winds.

At this time, Ireland was still not totally controlled by the English. There was a Gaelic aristocracy operating in many places, and this was strongest in the northern province of Ulster. There were three prominent clans who periodically sided with the English but fought against them on many other occasions. The Clan O'Donnell was in the west of Ulster in Donegal, the Clan O'Neill from Tyrone was in the centre, and the Clan MacDonnell was in the eastern county of Antrim. The English administration in Dublin were on alert for a Spanish invasion and possible Irish support for it. Orders were given to the authorities to execute all prisoners, and anyone helping them was to be charged with treason.

One of the ships that landed in Ireland was the Trinidad Valencera. It was pushed by a storm towards the coast of County Donegal and anchored close to Kinnagoe Bay. Two days later the ship sank though the crew survived and got to dry land. However, a few days later they were tricked into laying down their weapons and 300 of them were murdered by an Anglo-Irish force. The officers had been separated before the massacre and were marched to Dublin to be ransomed. Some managed to escape and were taken care of by the Catholic Bishop of Derry and the MacDonnells of Antrim. The survivors were then sent to Catholic Scotland, and from there to the safety of France.

Other ships suffered a similar fate. The Santa María Encoronada also ran aground on the west coast, and La Duquesa Santa Ana shipwrecked in Donegal, leaving 800 survivors waiting for assistance. The Girona was initially more fortunate. It managed to anchor in Killybegs harbour (in Ireland) after two other ships, the Lavia and San Juan, were destroyed trying to enter the port. The crew was helped by a local chieftain in Donegal and repairs were being carried out. Later, the Girona set off for Catholic Scotland, where it picked up more men, and then set sail for Spain.

The Girona tried to keep away from the Irish north coast but an Atlantic storm pushed it towards land. On the night of 26th October 1588, it hit Lacada Point at the Giant's Causeway in Antrim, Ireland. It is thought that there were only nine survivors. They were helped by the Clan MacDonnell. Their leader Sorley Boy had recently made peace with the English but he helped the Spanish anyway. Their stronghold was nearby, at Dunluce Castle, and from there Sorley Boy sent the survivors to Scotland. In total, more than 250 bodies washed ashore. It is thought that the MacDonnells buried them in a local church cemetery close to Dunluce. The clan did well from the wreck of the Girona, managing to salvage two treasure chests and three brass cannon. The English also attempted to salvage treasure, but with less success. The Girona then lay undisturbed on the seabed until 1967 when divers from Belgium brought up a massive amount of gold. It is said to be one of the biggest finds of Spanish gold ever.

UNFORTUNATE ARMADA

DUNLUCE CASTLE

There are several written accounts of the survivors' ordeal. One of them was written by Francisco de Cuellar, the captain of the San Pedro. During the initial voyage, he was sentenced to death for disobeying orders and was transferred to the San Juan de Sicilia. This ship eventually ran aground on the coast of Sligo. Here, the Spanish were treated like an invading army and attacked by the locals. Cuellar hid under a piece of wood as he floated to shore. Hundreds of horsemen passed him, and he saw about 800 bodies lying on the beach. When it was safe, he moved inland, where he was sometimes helped by locals, but attacked on other occasions. At times, he had no clothes.

BRIAN O'ROURKE

He eventually came to the land of Brian O'Rourke, a rebel chief who helped him (O'Rourke was later hung by the English, partly because of the help he had offered the Spanish sailors).

Later, Cuellar moved into the land of the MacClancys. There, he helped them defend their castle from an English attack. In thanks, the chief offered his daughter's hand in marriage, but Cuellar politely refused. Cuellar eventually got to the Bishop of Derry's house, where he was united with other Spaniards the Bishop had been helping, and they all escaped to Scotland. Cuellar finally made it back to Spain. Many months later, Cuellar was attacked again, this time by the Dutch near Calais, in France. Again he had to hide under wood as he floated to shore, just as he had done on the beach at Sligo.

In the end, about 24 ships were wrecked on the Irish coast. Thousands of sailors died and only a small amount survived to either return to Spain or settle in Ireland. They ended up at a rugged coastline which they didn't know at a violent time in Ireland's history. The Invincible Armada's doom on the island's coast is considered an important part of Irish history and the Ulster Museum in Belfast has some of the Girona's gold artefacts on display. The expedition is also remembered in the country's stories and placenames. The area around the Girona crashsite at the Giant's Causeway is known as Port na Spaniagh ("Port of the Spanish" in Irish Gaelic). So the story lives on in the memory of the Irish of a daring and dashing legion of foreigners whose adventure ended in disaster. ✨

THE ARMADA

The Spanish Armada was a fleet of ships sent by King Phillip II of Spain to invade England. King Phillip II (1527-1598) had been the co-monarch of England until the death of his wife Mary I (the daughter of Catherine of Aragon – one of King Henry VIII's wives) in 1558. That same year, Elizabeth I (the daughter of Anne Boleyn – another of King Henry VIII's wives) became queen. Philip II of Spain considered Elizabeth I a heretic (she was a Protestant) and the illegitimate ruler of England. He supported her Catholic cousin, Mary Queen of Scots, but Elizabeth I (1533-1603) had Mary imprisoned and finally executed in 1587. As a result, Philip planned an expedition to invade and conquer England. The invasion was to be carried out by an Armada composed of 151 ships, 8,000 sailors and 18,000 soldiers (not to mention the 30,000 soldiers stationed in the Spanish Netherlands). The Armada was initially commanded by the Marquis of Santa Cruz, but he died before it set off. The new commander was the Duke of Medina Sidonia. The Armada set sail from Lisbon (controlled by Spain at the time) in August 1588. Medina Sidonia had very little military or naval experience and had attempted to dissuade the king from making him Commander-in-Chief of the expedition. The Armada was defeated at Gravelines (a port in the Spanish Netherlands) by the English Navy which was led by Charles Howard and Francis Drake. In total, 50 ships were lost, 24 of them off the coast of Ireland. In 1589, there was an English Armada which was sent to occupy Portugal and north-western Spain. It was also unsuccessful.

GLOSSARY

- to set off phr vb
to start a journey
- to overthrow vb
if a government, king, queen or leader is "overthrown", they are removed from power
- to pick up phr vb
to collect
- to smash vb
to destroy completely
- the New World n
America
- a fire ship n
a ship with a fire on it that is used to attack other ships
- rugged adj
with many rocks
- to take on water exp
if a ship is "taking on water", it has a hole and water is entering it
- to side with phr vb
if A "sides with" B, A helps B (often in a fight / argument, competition, etc.)
- treason n
the crime of doing something against your country
- to anchor vb
if a ship "anchors", it drops its anchor (a heavy metal object attached to a chain) and stops in that place
- to sink vb
if a ship "sinks", it goes under the water
- to survive vb
if someone "survives" a war/attack, etc., they don't die in that war/attack, etc.
- to trick into exp
if A "tricks B into" doing something, A lies or does dishonest things in order to persuade B to do that thing
- to ransom vb
if A "ransoms" B (who is a prisoner), A offers to return B in exchange for money
- to run aground exp
if a ship "runs aground", it hits land and can't move
- to shipwreck vb
if a ship is "shipwrecked", it is destroyed in a storm or by hitting rocks
- a chieftain n
the leader of a tribe
- to set sail for exp
if a ship "sets sail for" an area, it starts to travel to that area
- a stronghold n
a well-fortified defensive structure such as a fort or castle
- to wash ashore exp
if objects are "washed ashore", they are carried to the beach by the sea
- to bury vb
to put a dead body in a hole in the ground
- to salvage vb
to collect objects from a ship that has been destroyed
- to float vb
if something "floats" on the water, it remains on the surface of the water
- to settle vb
if people "settle" in an area, they start living in that area

DICTIONARY OF SLANG

HERE WE'VE GOT SOME EXAMPLES OF HOW TO SAY THINGS IN DIFFERENT SITUATIONS.

Situation	Formal	Relaxed	Informal
A friend has just finished his food really quickly.	He consumed that food most rapidly.	He ate it quickly.	He wolfed it down.
A friend gives you a tip on losing weight. You think it's very useful.	It was of a most useful nature.	It was useful.	It was handy.
You need a taxi.	I am in need of the services of a hired vehicle.	I need a taxi.	I need a cab.
A friend tells you it's your turn to do the cleaning, even though you've done it the last six times. You can't believe what you're hearing.	You are surely jesting with me.	You must be joking.	You've got to be kidding.
You are in a bar and it's late at night. You want to go home.	I am considering vacating this venue.	I'm going to leave.	I'm gonna hit the road.
A friend made you a cup of coffee. It was just what you needed.	That coffee was of a most satisfactory nature.	That coffee was just what I needed.	That coffee really hit the spot.

CHAT-UP LINES / PICK-UP LINES

(US English)

LET'S SEE IF YOU GET LUCKY.

- 1 Do you like chocolate?
- 2 I love you!
- 3 You look sad. Maybe I could cheer you up.
- 4 Have you ever considered a career in modelling?
- 5 Is there a post office near here because I'd like to send you a love letter?

Hot English Licensees

JOIN THE LIST OF THE FOLLOWING ACADEMIES WHO HAVE RECENTLY BECOME Hot English licensees. They have seen how to benefit from all our "know how" on how best to market and administer the Hot English Method. (see page 18 for more details)

- Increase client satisfaction
- Boost client retention
- Profit from a far more extensive offer

How can you become a licensee?

Call 91 543 3573 or email business@hotenglishmagazine.com
Contact us TODAY!

The Hot English Method is taught all over Spain

ACCENT ALERT

The Black Country Accent

OUR MONTHLY LOOK AT ENGLISH ACCENTS FROM AROUND THE WORLD IN BOTH ENGLISH-SPEAKING AND NON-ENGLISH-SPEAKING COUNTRIES. THIS MONTH: THE BLACK COUNTRY ACCENT.

The Black Country Accent

The Black Country refers to an area of England in the west Midlands – in the centre of England. It is to the north and west of the city of Birmingham, but, very importantly, does NOT include Birmingham – people from the Black Country are very clear about that! A common definition of the Black Country includes the boroughs of Dudley, Sandwell, Walsall and the City of Wolverhampton, with the town of Dudley being referred to as the Black Country's capital. The population of the area is approximately 1.2 million people.

So, why is it called the Black Country? The term can be traced back to the 19th century. At that time, the area was heavily industrialised, and by the late 19th century, it had become one of the most intensely-industrialised areas in the country. The iron and steel factories all used local coal to fire their furnaces. And this produced a lot of black smoke. Another theory says that the name came from all the black coal that appeared on the surface of the ground. In fact, there was so much coal that the soil looked black.

The Black Country is mostly famous for its association with the Industrial Revolution (between the 18th and 19th centuries).

The Black Country

Living Museum in

Dudley recreates

life in the Black

Country

in the early 20th century, and is a popular tourist attraction. The Black

Country also has a complex system of canals. The writer JRR Tolkien is also associated with the region, and his parents were from Birmingham. It is said that the region of Mordor from The Lord of the Rings novels is based on the heavily industrialised Black Country area. In "Elvish" language "Mor-Dor" means "Dark Land", and in the novel it is sometimes referred to as "The Black Country".

Now sit back and listen to Steph telling us a story in her best Black Country accent. 🗣️

Refer to unit 13 of your Advanced Skills Booklet for more explanations and exercises.

SKILLS BOOKLET LISTENING

Slander Slam

The world versus British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen.

1 Pre-listening

Read about the lawsuits involving famous people. One of them is false. Which one is it?

1. David Schwimmer sued a Hollywood fund-raiser after there were claims that Schwimmer required two Rolex watches in order to attend a charity dinner.
2. A Palestinian is suing British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen after being referred to as a terrorist.
3. Cameron Diaz is suing British newspaper The Sun over claims that she was having an affair with a psychologist.
4. Sharon Stone sued a plastic surgeon for falsely telling reporters that she had undergone a facelift.
5. Robin Williams is suing a celebrity look-alike for passing himself off as the real Williams.

2 Listening I

You are going to listen to people discussing a recent lawsuit. As you are listening, answer this question: Why is Sacha Baron Cohen being sued? Make notes as you listen and provide as many details as you can.

3 Listening II

Listen again and answer this question: What is the difference between "libel" and "slander"? Make notes as you are listening and provide as many details and/or examples as you can.

4 Language focus Structural cloze

Read over the extracts from the conversation and add words to complete them. Then, listen again to check your answers.

1. The story centres _____ controversial British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen.
2. Baron Cohen is being sued _____ slander.
3. Then, as part of the promotion for the film, Baron Cohen appeared _____ the David Letterman Show.
4. Let's turn now _____ our legal expert, Gordon Houseman.
5. For example you could describe the Prime Minister _____ "a bad Prime Minister".
6. Unless, of course, you have hard evidence to back _____ what you're saying.
7. Strictly speaking, _____ Sacha Baron Cohen case is libel.
8. Due _____ this distinction, damages for slander tend to involve smaller sums of money...
9. A remark can only be slanderous if it is heard _____ a third party.
10. Celebrity Victoria Beckham recently lost _____ slander case and had to pay £150,000...

5 Discussion

1. Have there been any famous lawsuits in your country recently? What were they about?
2. Are there any famous slander or libel cases from your country? What are they about?
3. What do you think of the term "defamation of character"? Is it a justifiable reason to sue someone? Why? Why not?

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

ACCENT ALERT & SKILLS BOOKLET LISTENING (C1)

WAY IDIOMS

THIS MONTH, WE ARE LOOKING AT SOME "WAY" IDIOMS.

Set in your ways

SOMEONE WHO IS "SET IN THEIR WAYS" LIKES TO DO THINGS THE WAY THEY USUALLY DO THEM.
"She's so set in her ways. She won't listen to advice or accept any help."

No way

THIS EXPRESSION IS USED TO MEAN, "NEVER! / UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES."

A: Would you ever let him work here again?
B: No way! Not after the way he treated us.

(There's) no two ways about it

THIS IS SOMETHING YOU CAN SAY IN ORDER TO EMPHASISE THAT SOMETHING IS TRUE.
"She's the nicest, kindest most wonderful person I've ever met in my life. There's no two ways about it."

Find out the hard way

IF YOU LEARN ABOUT SOMETHING THE HARD WAY, YOU LEARN ABOUT IT THROUGH UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCES, RATHER THAN BY BEING TAUGHT ABOUT IT.

"If he won't listen to our advice, then he'll have to find out the hard way."

Have it your own way

IF YOU TELL SOMEONE THAT THEY CAN "HAVE IT THEIR OWN WAY", YOU ACCEPT THAT THEY CAN DO IT THE WAY THAT THEY WANT.
"OK, have it your own way. Go on the trip alone, but don't come crying to me when you get into trouble."

Can't have it both ways

THIS MEANS THAT YOU CAN ONLY CHOOSE ONE OF TWO MUTUALLY EXCLUSIVE COURSES OF ACTION. FOR EXAMPLE, "YOU CAN HAVE A, OR YOU CAN HAVE B, BUT YOU CAN'T HAVE A AND B."

"You can stay here with me, or you can go and live with Beth and forget about me. You can't have it both ways – in the end you have to choose one of us."

Famous Feasts

Could you pass the roast elephant, please? By Patrick Howarth

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Match the animals (1 to 8) to the pictures (a-h).

1. A duck
2. An oyster
3. A camel
4. A bear
5. A bull
6. A swan
7. A peacock
8. A seal

2 Reading I

Read the article once. Which feast sounds like the best/worst? Why?

3 Reading II

Read the article again and match the animals from the Pre-reading exercise to the feasts.

4 Language focus Comparative structures

Look at this extract from the article, "An even more bizarre meal was that planned by..." The writer has used a comparative structure ("even more bizarre..."). Complete the following comparative sentences with your own ideas.

1. An even better way to get fit is to...
2. An even worse thing to do would be to...
3. An even better way to get your revenge would be to...
4. An even nastier thing to do would be to...
5. An even better way to save money would be to...

5 Discussion

1. Have there been any famous feasts from your country? Who attended? What did they eat?
2. What would you have if you could arrange the feast of your choice? Who would you invite?
3. Have you ever been to a feast or banquet? What did they serve?

Just recently, British TV's Channel 4 drew up a list of the 10 most famous feasts of all time. Here they are.

The most recent feast on the list was President Obama's inauguration dinner in January 2009. Although there were 200 guests, the food was far plainer and more traditional than you might expect. Guests were served a seafood stew, roast duck and other game birds, southern molasses, whipped sweet potato and apple cinnamon sponge cake, which were all recipes representing different areas of the US.

A much more elaborate affair was 2007's Epicurean Masters of the World feast hosted by the King of Thailand and prepared by Michelin-starred French chefs. The menu, which was accompanied by a range of very expensive wines, included "crème brûlée of foie gras" with Tonga beans and Kobe beef tartare with Imperial Beluga caviar and Belon oysters. Who ate this incredibly rich feast? The incredibly rich, of course, as the meal cost about €17,500 a head.

An even more bizarre meal was that planned by the former President of France, Francois Mitterand, in 1995. Mitterand knew he was dying, so he ordered a final blow-out meal to celebrate the French Republic through cuisine. The centre-piece of the meal was the illegal ortolan bunting, a dish that consists of a tiny bird that is roasted and served whole. Mitterand died ten days after his meal, having never eaten again.

Even stranger perhaps was wealthy New Yorker CKG. Billing's Equestrian Club dinner held at Sherry's Hotel in 1903. The menu itself was not particularly notable but the occasion is remembered because over 30 horses had to be taken by lift up to the hotel's ballroom, so that the diners could eat on horseback. Troughs of food were provided for the horses, so they could join in too.

A wild time was had by guests at a dinner held by a Parisian mayor on New Year's Eve 1870. The city was under siege by the Prussian troops and food was running out, so Monsieur Bonvalet (the mayor) ordered a restaurant to cook animals from the city's zoo. The chefs prepared roasted camels, elephants and bears.

The Acclimatisation Society of Great Britain was a Victorian society dedicated to introducing animals to new habitats. At their launch dinner in 1862 they decided to collect unfamiliar dishes from around the world. The resulting menu, which would have been very cosmopolitan for its time, offered bird's nest soup, steamed kangaroo, Syrian pig and seaweed jelly.

In 1817, the Prince regent of Britain invited famous chef Antonin de Careme to prepare a feast for him to be held at the recently-completed Brighton Pavilion. De Careme created over 120 dishes for the fabulous evening, the most remarkable of which were his "pièces montées", enormous cakes that were architectural models of famous places. One that represented a Turkish mosque was several metres high.

But De Careme's 120-dish extravaganza pales into insignificance when compared to the feast held to celebrate the enthronement of George Neville as Archbishop of York in 1467. There were 2,500 guests and 40,000 dishes were prepared for them. The shopping list for the dinner is extraordinary and included wild bulls, 300 young calves, 400 swans, 400 peacocks, 5,000 geese, 1,000 sheep, 3,000 pigs, 12 porpoises and seals, 5,000 custard pies, 6,000 jellies and 15,000 other desserts.

The Emperors of Rome are famous for enjoying a good feast and some of their recipes have survived. Elagabalus (203 – 222 AD) was fond of flamingos' brains, camels' heels and parrots' heads. As the guests ate, flower petals rained down on them and they were entertained by bizarre stage shows.

Arguably the most famous feast of them all is the Last Supper, possibly eaten by Jesus Christ and his disciples in Jerusalem around 33 BC. There is a lot of scholarly debate about what might have been on the menu but it could have featured unleavened bread, fish, lamb, spiced fruit, honey and red wine.

So, there we have some of the greatest feasts of all time. Which one would you have liked to have gone to? 🍷

SKILLSBOOKLET READING (C1)

Watch & Learn!
Listen to two people discussing
this topic in a mini-video at
www.hotenglishmagazine.com

READING I

Wacky Workouts

Fitness craze or just downright crazy?

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

- 1 Pre-reading
Look at the list of fitness crazes. What do you think they consist of? What type of exercise is involved? What are the pros and cons of each one?
1. Stiletto Strength
 2. Beat up your Boss
 3. Bikram Yoga
 4. Plastic Wrapping
 5. Hawaii Chair
 6. Tweet What you Eat
 7. Karaoke Spinning

2 Reading I
Read the article once to check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II
Read the article again and write mini-descriptions of each fitness craze.

4 Language focus
Verbal phrases as nouns
Look at this extract from the article, "So, getting fit is easy,..." In this extract, the writer has used a verbal phrase ("to get fit") as a noun ("getting fit"). Complete the following sentence beginnings with your own ideas.

1. Doing exercise is...
2. Finding time to do sport is...
3. Trying to lose weight is...
4. Getting fit is a question of...
5. Training for a marathon would be...

- 5 Discussion
1. Which fitness craze from this article sounds the most interesting to you?
 2. Which fitness craze sounds the most ridiculous?
 3. What do you do to keep fit? How effective is it?

What do you do to keep fit? Aerobics? Jogging? Step? You might like to try a few of these wacky fitness crazes.

First on the list is "Stiletto Strength". Participants do a mixture of Pilates and strength training, but in 8-centimetre highheels. But is it safe? One expert from the American Council on Exercise says, "Stiletto heels don't really put the foot and ankle in the most advantageous position. I wouldn't recommend this sport."

But if that sounds dangerous, how about this one, "Beat Up Your Boss"? As part of this fitness routine, you and your employer undertake a rigorous two-month training course before stepping into the boxing ring to pummel one another. What happens when you get back to the office is anybody's guess. There is an old golf saying, "Never beat the boss." But then it doesn't say anything about never beating up the boss.

For those of a less violent nature, why not try a bit of Bikram yoga? Most people recommend trying to keep cool when you exercise, but in the Bikram yoga room they turn the temperature up to 40°C. Famous fans of this include Madonna, Sting and Gwyneth Paltrow. But is exercising at that heat a good idea? One yoga website lists a few of the possible risks involved: dehydration, heat exhaustion, heat stroke, and injuries resulting from fainting. What fun!

Some of today's new fitness crazes seem to dispense with any actual exercise. Take "Plastic Wrapping". This involves enveloping yourself in cling film and sweating away any excess weight. As one fitness website recommends, "Stop immediately and unwrap the moment you feel giddy or faint." Perhaps just, "Stop immediately!" might be better.

For those who want to keep fit, but simply don't have time to leave the office there's the "Hawaii Chair". A modern version of the vibrating belt, this is a chair that spins and vibrates, supposedly giving you a workout while you look over a spreadsheet. The chair's motto is, "If you can sit, you can get fit!" So, getting fit is easy, but drinking a coffee or talking to the boss with a straight face could be more difficult.

Another idea for people who struggle to get away from the desk comes in the form of social networking site "Twitter". The latest craze is "Tweet What You Eat". It's simple. All you have to do is post a message every time you eat or drink something. Supposedly the shame of knowing that the world is aware of what you're eating will help you to reduce your calorie intake. Believe it or not, thousands of people sign up to "Twitter themselves fitter" every week. Or if that doesn't appeal to you, how about a bit of "Karaoke Spinning". Yes, you guessed it, a healthy workout on an exercise bike while you sing songs.

So there you have it. Just a few of the weirdest and wackiest fitness crazes out there today. But that's enough for now. I must run. After all, I wouldn't want to miss my "Karaoke Spinning" class. *

GLOSSARY

an ankle n
the joint that connects your foot and your leg

to beat up phr vb
to hit many times

to undertake vb
if you "undertake" a job or task, you start doing it and take responsibility for it to pummel vb

to hit many times using fists (closed hands)

to faint vb
to lose consciousness to dispense with exp

if you "dispense with" something, you stop using it because you don't need it any longer

cling film n
a thin, clear, stretchy plastic that you put around food to keep it fresh to unwrap vb

to take off the paper/plastic that is covering something giddy adj

if you feel "giddy", you feel unsteady and you think you are going to fall

a workout n a period of intense exercise often in order to get fit

a spreadsheet n
a computer file with numerical data / numbers, etc. on it a straight face n

if you have a "straight face", you have a serious look on your face, even though you may want to laugh

READING II

Big lies

Some of the biggest liars in history.

ANSWERS ON PAGE 45

1 Pre-reading

Look at the pictures of the famous people. How are they connected to "lies" and "lying"?

- Richard Nixon (former US president)
- Bill Clinton (former US president)
- Paul Burrell (Princess Diana's butler)
- Jeffrey Archer (author and MP)
- Sarah Palin (vice-presidential candidate)

2 Reading I

Read the article once to check your ideas from the Pre-reading activity.

3 Reading II

Read the article again and write a summary of each person and how they are involved with lies and lying.

4 Language focus Passive Infinitives

Look at this extract from the article, "...and he became the second ever President to be impeached for obstruction of justice..." The writer has used a Passive Infinitive ("to be impeached"). Complete the following sentences with your own ideas.

- I need to be shown how to...
- She hopes to be given...
- They like to be seen...
- He hates to be told...
- She was the first person to be awarded...

5 Discussion

- What's the best / worst / most obvious lie you've heard recently?
- How do you know if someone is lying? What do you do when you know someone is lying to you?
- Have you ever checked up on someone's story because you suspected they were lying? Why? What happened?

Are there any famous liars from your country? The following are some of the world's most notorious liars.

If you asked someone to name a famous liar, the first person they'd probably think of is Richard Nixon. He was the 37th President of the United States and was in office from 1969–1974. Republican "Tricky Dicky", as he's now somewhat unfortunately known, was involved in the Watergate scandal. In 1972, five men were caught breaking into the Democratic Party headquarters in Washington. Many suspected that the men were linked to the White House. Initially, Nixon denied all involvement and went on national television to utter these now immortal words, "People have got to know whether or not their President is a crook. Well I'm not a crook." Unfortunately it turned out that he was, and that was it for his presidency... and his reputation.

Equally famous was the lie told by Bill Clinton. He was the 42nd president of the US, and was in office from January 1993 until January 2001. "I'm going to say this again," Democratic Clinton solemnly declared, "I did not have relations with that woman," after he was accused of having an affair with White House intern, Monica Lewinsky. Unfortunately for Bill, evidence proved otherwise, and he became the second ever President to be impeached for obstruction of justice (for which he was subsequently acquitted).

Britain has had its fair share of liars too. Princess Diana's former butler, Paul Burrell, was branded a liar and threatened with perjury. He gave evidence during the inquest into Diana's death. This was later exposed as a catalogue of lies after The Sun newspaper carried out an undercover operation. They managed to get recordings of a drunken Burrell boasting about his false evidence.

Internationally-acclaimed author Jeffrey Archer is another famous British liar. In 1987, the Tory MP was involved in a libel case which he brought against the Daily Star newspaper. The newspaper had alleged that Archer had been involved with a prostitute. The case was found in Archer's favour and he was awarded £500,000 damages. But years later, two people came forward with evidence that Archer had lied under oath. In a subsequent court case, Archer was found guilty of perjury and sent to prison for four years (only serving two of them).

In a more recent case, vice-presidential candidate Sarah Palin has been accused of telling the biggest political lie of 2009. She claimed that the Obama administration was planning to introduce "death panels" as part of his plans to reform the US health care system. She wrote, "My parents... will have to stand in front of Obama's 'death panel' so his bureaucrats can decide whether they are worthy of health care." It was all a lie.

There's an old saying that if you say something enough, people will eventually believe it... even if it's a lie! And there seems to be some truth in that. ✪

GLOSSARY

- linked to exp connected to
- to deny vb if you "deny" something, you say it isn't true
- involvement n participation in something
- a crook n a thief/criminal/robber, etc.
- that was it for exp that was the end of...
- an intern n a student or recent graduate who works in a company (often for free) in order to gain experience
- to impeach vb if a president is "impeached", he/she is charged with committing a crime and may have to stop being president
- a butler n a male servant
- to brand someone a liar exp to say that someone is a liar
- perjury n the crime of lying whilst giving evidence in a court of law
- an inquest n an official investigation into the cause of someone's death
- a catalogue of lies exp a series of lies (things that aren't true)
- an undercover operation n a secret operation in which the police or journalists act as if they are ordinary citizens in order to catch someone or discover information
- to boast vb if someone "boasts" about something they can do, they say how good they are at that thing
- Tory n from the Conservative party – the centre-right political party in the UK
- libel n writing or recording something that wrongly accuses someone of something
- to find in someone's favour exp if a court "finds in someone's favour", they accept and believe that person's version of events
- under oath exp if someone is "under oath", they have promised to tell the truth in a court of law

PHRASAL VERB THEMES

The News

HERE ARE SOME TYPICAL PHRASAL VERBS THAT YOU CAN FIND IN NEWS ARTICLES. MORE NEXT MONTH. COMPLETE THE SENTENCES WITH THE WORDS FROM BELOW.

- week witnesses cure scheme storm spending investigation servants

CLOSE OFF
IF A ROAD IS "CLOSED OFF", A BARRIER IS PUT ACROSS IT SO THAT NOBODY CAN GO THROUGH IT.

1 "THE ROAD WAS CLOSED OFF WHILE THE POLICE WERE CARRYING OUT THE _____."

COME ABOUT
WHEN YOU EXPLAIN HOW SOMETHING "COMES ABOUT", YOU EXPLAIN HOW IT HAPPENS.

2 "THE DISCOVERY OF THE _____ CAME ABOUT BY CHANCE."

COME DOWN
IF SOMETHING "COMES DOWN", IT COLLAPSES OR FALLS TO THE GROUND, OFTEN FOR NO APPARENT REASON.

3 "A NUMBER OF TREES CAME DOWN DURING THE _____."

COME IN
WHEN A GOVERNMENT "COMES IN", IT WINS AN ELECTION AND STARTS GOVERNING THE COUNTRY.

4 "WHEN THE NEW GOVERNMENT CAME IN, THEY PROMISED TO INCREASE PUBLIC _____."

GO UP TO INCREASE.

5 "PRICES HAVE BEEN GOING UP ALL _____."

COME FORWARD
IF SOMEONE "COMES FORWARD" WITH INFORMATION, THEY GO TO THE POLICE TO GIVE THEM THAT INFORMATION.

6 "A NUMBER OF PEOPLE CAME FORWARD AFTER THE POLICE APPEALED FOR _____."

COME UP (FOR DISCUSSION / REVIEW)
IF SOMETHING "COMES UP" FOR DISCUSSION OR REVIEW, IT IS TIME FOR THAT THING TO BE DISCUSSED OR REVIEWED, OR SOMEONE SUGGESTS THAT IT SHOULD BE DISCUSSED OR REVIEWED.

7 "THE PENSION _____ HAS COME UP FOR REVIEW."

COME UP AGAINST
IF YOU "COME UP AGAINST" A PROBLEM OR DIFFICULTY, YOU ARE FACED WITH IT AND HAVE TO FIND A SOLUTION TO IT.

8 "THE GOVERNMENT CAME UP AGAINST STIFF RESISTANCE WHEN IT TRIED TO INTRODUCE THE NEW PAYMENT SCHEME FOR CIVIL _____."

SUBSCRIPTIONS!

hot english magazine

Subscribe NOW!

Call now on (00 34) 91 549 85 23,

e-mail subs@hotenglishmagazine.com,

SKYPE: hotenglishmagazine2010, or send this form (or a photocopy) to Paseo del Rey, 221ª, Planta Oficina 1, 28008 Madrid or visit: www.hotenglishmagazine.com

Subscriptions from Europe / Rest of the World (ROW)

(NOT including Spain)

- I'd like to subscribe to the Premium version. One year: 11 magazines + 11 CDs + online web subscription. One-year subscription = Europe €84 / ROW €94 ; two-year subscription = Europe €143 / ROW €160 ; 3-year subscription = Europe €214 / ROW €234 .
- I'd like to subscribe to Hot English Magazine = Europe €74 / ROW €84 One year: 11 magazines + 11 CDs.
- I'd like to subscribe to the online version of Hot English. One year: 11 issues (PDF format) + 11 sets of sound files (MP3s). One-year subscription = €34 ; 2-year subscription = €58 ; 3-year subscription = €72 .
- Licence: institutions, language academies, schools, etc. who wish to make photocopies of limited pages from the magazine require a licence (100 photocopies - 100 sides or 50 A4 sheets in total). = €50.
- I'd like to subscribe to the Teacher's Notes = €15. One year: 11 issues. Note: if you have an online subscription, you will only receive online access to the Teacher's Notes.
- Hot English Method Teacher's Version. Price €75. Includes: 1 Skills Booklet* + Teacher's Guide + the 9 issues of Hot English magazine that are linked to the Skills Booklets + 9 audio CDs. Indicate Skills Booklet level/s you require: _____
For each additional Skills Booklet add €24.
- Hot English Method Student's Version. Price €67. Includes: 1 Skills Booklet* + the 9 issues of Hot English magazine that are linked to the Skills Booklets + 9 audio CDs. Indicate Skills Booklet level/s you require: _____
For each additional Skills Booklet add €24.
- I am an existing subscriber. €24 per Skills Booklet. Indicate Skills Booklet (Teacher's or Student's version) and level/s* you require: _____

My personal details are: (Please, write in capital letters and clearly)

Name: _____ Surname: _____
 Address: _____
 Post code: _____ Town: _____
 Phone number: _____
 E-mail: _____
 Age: _____ ID Number (Spain only): _____

Please, tick this box if you do not want to receive our weekly free Newsletter.

Form of payment:

1. Credit Card

Visa/Mastercard ____/____/____/____ Expiry Date ____/____

There is an additional charge of 2% of the total amount for credit card purchases.

Suscripciones desde España

- Me gustaría suscribirme a la versión Premium= 64€. Un año: 11 números + 11 CDs + la versión descargable. Suscripción de un año = €64 ; suscripción de dos años = €109 ; suscripción de 3 años = €158 .
- Me gustaría suscribirme a Hot English Magazine = 54€. Un año: 11 números + 11 CDs.
- Me gustaría suscribirme a la versión descargable de Hot English Magazine = 34€. Un año: 11 números en formato PDF + archivos de audio (en MP3). Suscripción de un año = €34 ; suscripción de dos años = €58 ; suscripción de 3 años= €72 .
- Licencia: instituciones, academias, escuelas, etc. que quieren hacer fotocopias de un número limitado de páginas de la revista requieren una licencia (100 fotocopias - 100 caras o 50 folios de tina 4 en total). = €50.
- Me gustaría suscribirme a las Notas del Profesor = 15€. Un año: 11 números. Nota: si tienes una suscripción online, sólo tendrás acceso online a las Notas del Profesor.
- Versión del Método Hot English para profesores. Precio €69. Incluye: 1 Skills Booklet* + Guía del Profesor + 9 ejemplares de Hot English magazine que están relacionadas con los Skills Booklets + 9 CDs para audio. Indica nivel/es de Skills Booklet que desea: _____
Para cada Skills Booklet adicional, añade €18.
- Versión del Método Hot English para estudiantes. Precio €61. Incluye: 1 Skills Booklet* + 9 ejemplares de Hot English magazine que están relacionadas con los Skills Booklets + 9 CDs para audio. Indica nivel/es de Skills Booklet que desea: _____
Para cada Skills Booklet adicional, añade €18.
- Ya soy suscriptor. €18 por Skills Booklet. Indica nivel/es de Skills Booklet que desea y si es versión para profesores o estudiantes: _____

Mis datos personales son: (Por favor, escribe de una manera clara y en mayúsculas)

Nombre: _____ Apellido: _____

Dirección: _____

Código Postal: _____ Población: _____

Número de teléfono: _____

E-mail: _____

Edad: _____ DNI/NIF: _____

Por favor, marca esta casilla si no deseas recibir nuestro newsletter semanal gratuito.

Formas de Pago

Para precios fuera de España, por favor, llama al (00 34) 91 549 85 23)

1. Tarjeta de crédito

Visa/Mastercard ____/____/____/____

Fecha de Caducidad ____/____

Para el pago con tarjeta, se cobra un cargo adicional correspondiente al 2% del precio total.

2. Domiciliación bancaria (Sólo España)

Número de cuenta ____ / ____ / ____ / ____

Banco: _____

Sucursal: _____

Dirección: _____

Código Postal: _____

3. Cheque a Hot English Publishing S.L. (Sólo España)

4. Contra reembolso (Sólo España) Se añadirá entre 1,25€ y 7€ para cubrir gastos postales.

5. Transferencia bancaria a HOT ENGLISH PUBLISHING SL (Sólo España): 0030 1141 61 0297785273.

* There are 4 levels: Pre-intermediate (A2), Intermediate (B1), Upper Intermediate (B2), Advanced (C1)
  This course is linked in with Hot English magazines 95 to 103. These are the magazines you will receive.
 Hot English strongly recommends existing subscribers that their subscription should cover issues 95 to 103 of Hot English magazine in order to take full advantage of the Skills Booklets. For multiple subscriptions, please consult our office for prices. Call (00 34) 91 5498523, e-mail subs@hotenglishmagazine.com or SKYPE: hotenglishmagazine2010.
 The prices on this page are valid for three months from the date of publication of this issue.

TAPESCRIP TS & BAR CHATS

Home Sweet Home (track 9)

How to buy a flat.

Agent: Good morning, madam. Do come in and take a seat. Now how can I help you?

Mrs Posh: Well, I'm looking for a flat. It's for my children. My husband and I want them to leave home.

Agent: Oh, I see. Right. Well, let me ask you a few questions first. How many bedrooms?

Mrs Posh: Two. No, three. We've got three children. Damien, Phillipa, and David. I always forget about David. David's the youngest. He's quieter than the other two, so I don't notice him as much. So, I need 3 bedrooms. Or perhaps I should get four – there might be another child that I've forgotten about.

Agent: So, would that be three or four bedrooms?

Mrs Posh: Better make it five. Nanny will need a room. I forgot about Nanny. Her room's more important than the garage! Oh yes, we'll need a garage. For Nanny's car. Of course. Nanny drives them to work.

Agent: To work?

Mrs Posh: David's at university. Or is he at school? I don't remember. Oh, yes, David's 34. He's Professor of History at Cambridge University. Or at least I think he is. Anyway, Nanny takes him to Cambridge after she's driven the other two to the bank.

Agent: OK. What about price? How much do you want to spend?

Mrs Posh: Well, how much do flats cost? I've never bought one before. Is a flat more expensive than a car?

Agent: Well, our most expensive five-bedroom flat is on the market for £600,000.

Mrs Posh: Is that all! I'll have two of those, please. I'll need two if the children argue. Yes. If they haven't got another flat to go to, they'll come back home to the house. So, yes, I'd better have two then. Do you have two I can buy today?

Agent: Today?

Mrs Posh: Well, right now if possible.

Agent: Now?

Mrs Posh: Well, I'm in a bit of a hurry. I'm very busy this weekend. I've got tickets to the opera.

Agent: But don't you want to see any of the flats?

Mrs Posh: Oh, well I saw one last week. A lovely man here showed it to me. It was in Avenue Road. Just the round the corner from here.

Agent: Oh, yes. Did you like it?

Mrs Posh: Certainly not! It was the smallest, dirtiest, nastiest little place I've ever been in. It didn't even have a garden.

Agent: Well, most flats don't actually have gardens, but it does have five bedrooms – just what you're looking for.

Mrs Posh: Our dog's bedroom is bigger than any of the bedrooms in that place. I can't imagine what sort of person would live in a place like that.

Agent: Actually, I live there. It's my flat. I'm selling it.

Mrs Posh: Oh, dear. I am sorry. I am so sorry that you have to live in the smallest flat in Britain. Why don't you buy yourself a nicer home? A big house perhaps. Actually, maybe I should leave. I'm not sure I want to buy something from someone who doesn't live in a real house. I mean, it'd be like buying a steak from a vegetarian. Sheer madness. I suppose the children can stay at home for one more night. Goodbye!

Agent: Bye.

Animal Charity (track 12)

An interview with a member of an animal charity.

Newsreader: And finally tonight, good news for conservationists everywhere with the launch of a new charity: BBBBB – "Bring the British Bandicoot Back from the Brink". Their aim is to stop the total extinction of the little-known British bandicoot. The British bandicoot, Moira?

Interviewer: Thanks, John. Well, I'm joined tonight by Camilla Pongleton-Jones, founder and chairperson of "Bring the British Bandicoot Back from the Brink". So, Mrs Pongleton-Jones, why the bandicoot?

Camilla: Oh, call me Camilla, Moira, darling. We're not at all formal here at BBBBB. And remember, our slogan is, "Oh, please, Be, Be, Be, Be, Be generous." And people have been giving us lots of money.

Interviewer: I imagine that many people at home won't have heard of the British bandicoot. Perhaps you could tell us a bit about this very rare animal. What do they look like?

Camilla: Well, they're quite big with dark fur and a long tail. Or is it small? I never remember. Oh, yes, they're quite small with light fur and a short tail.

Interviewer: I'm sorry. Are they big or small?

Camilla: Well, they're small when they're young and then they get a bit bigger as they get older. And their fur changes colour in the winter. It's darker in summer.

Interviewer: And the tail?

Camilla: The male has a tail. And people can send donations to...

Interviewer: And what about diet?

Camilla: Well, they eat typical small, er, big, er, mammal food. Like... cheese.

Interviewer: Cheese? How do they find cheese in the wild?

Camilla: With difficulty. This is why they are nearly extinct. There's not much cheese left in the wild. This is a big problem if you're a bandicoot. I mean they can't just go to the supermarket like you and I and... As I said, people can send donations to...

Interviewer: And is the bandicoot's habitat under threat?

Camilla: Absolutely. The British bandicoot's natural home has been disappearing over the past ten years. We've been collecting money to raise enough to open a bandicoot sanctuary here in central London.

Interviewer: In central London? Isn't that a strange place to have an animal sanctuary?

Camilla: No, not at all. The bandicoot likes to spend time indoors, where it can be safe and warm... where it can watch television and read a good book. Play table tennis even.

Interviewer: I beg your pardon?

Camilla: Like all wild animals the bandicoot needs room. So we're hoping to buy a large eight bedroom house here in central London as headquarters for our charitable work. Once we've got a safe comfortable home where we can live and work, we can start looking for a Bandicoot to save. It's all been planned scientifically. We've been campaigning for the bandicoot for two or three weeks now and we hope to raise the £1 million necessary for the house in London very soon. People can send donations to...

Interviewer: Now, I Googled the British bandicoot this afternoon and I must say I couldn't find anything about it.

Camilla: No, no. You've been looking at the wrong websites, Moira.

Interviewer: So, do you have a picture of the animal?

Camilla: We've been trying to find one for a couple of weeks now but none exist. Photographs, not bandicoots, I mean. They're terribly shy animals. No one knows where to find one.

Interviewer: So, how are you going to find any to save, Mrs Pongleton-Jones?

Camilla: That's step two of our programme, Moira. One step at a time. Step one is buying a large comfortable house in central London first. We haven't started planning step two yet.

Interviewer: Back to you in the studio, John.

British Bar Chat (track 19)

My Favourite Bar

Jason: So, what's your, what's your favourite bar, what's your local?

Kate: Erm, while I was living in Cambridge it was called the Cambridge Blue, it was just around the corner from where I worked.

Jason: OK, great, and why, why did you like it so much?

Kate: Erm, I think it's because it had, it had a rotation of beers so, constantly, every week it changed the selection of beers that you could have and I think, in the two years that they'd owned the pub there was 750 beers or something ridiculous.

Jason: Wow, must have got a bit confusing, no, you don't know what to order.

Kate: Yeah, absolutely, I just used to copy my friends.

Jason: OK, so who did you used to go there with?

Kate: Well, it was, erm, it was, there was about 8 of us from work but we used to go to a really dreadful pub to begin with and then eventually we decided on the Cambridge Blue but it meant that half of the people went to the awful White Swan and then the other half of us went to the Cambridge Blue because the people, the people that went to the White Swan they were lager drinkers and beer was not, they didn't like beer so they wouldn't, they wouldn't come with us.

Jason: So you were the real beer drinkers.

Kate: We're the real beer drinkers.

Jason: Oh, very good.

US Bar Chat (track 20)

Relationship problems.

Jim: Hey, Sammy how...? Oh, you look a bit upset today, a bit blue, a bit down, what's wrong?

Sammy: Yeah, I guess I do look that way. I always wear my heart on my sleeve.

Jim: Yeah, so what happened now?

Sammy: Boyfriend problems, you know how it is.

Jim: Yeah, what's he done this time?

Sammy: Too much to go into, too much. I really gotta break up with him, you know, I just gotta break up with him.

Jim: Yeah, well let me get you a drink while you tell me all about it.

Sammy: All right.

Jim: So what have you been doing today?

Sammy: Erm, I guess I should tell you that I'm going to see a psychologist about it. It's gotten so bad. And you know what she told me? She told me the whole time I was saying, "I love my boyfriend", I said, "I love my boyfriend. I still love my boyfriend," and she said, "No, you don't." I go, "What do you mean, I don't? I do, I love my boyfriend. I do." And she said, "Stop for a minute. Do you realize you've been shaking your head back and forth, back and forth the whole time?"

Jim: Well, what you need is something to take your mind off it. Hey, why don't we go and catch that new film that's just come out?

Sammy: All right, all right, you wanna have that drink first?

Jim: Yeah, hey, tell you what? I've got a bottle of Jack Daniels back at my place. Do you wanna come back and have a drink?

Sammy: Yeah, I like that idea...

Jim: OK.

Sammy: ... I like it a lot.

School Food (track 21)

The world in 30 years' time.

Peter: Good evening and welcome to 30 Years Into The Future, our weekly look at how the world will or will not be different in 30 years' time. Tonight we're looking at the future of canteen food. Will school meals be healthier? Will canteens at work still exist? Will food be cooked in the same way? I'm talking to a number of experts on the matter. They are: nutritionist, Dr Muriel Bancroft; educational psychologist, Horace Vole; and school dinner lady, Mrs Rita Mange. Good evening, everyone. Perhaps we can start with you, Horace Vole. Canteen meals of the future – same or different?

Horace: Well, it doesn't really matter what I think, Peter, I'm just a psychologist, you know. However, I did do some research and carried out a number of surveys with school children. Now, some of their findings were most interesting. I asked them what changes there might be in school meals over the next 30 years. Many think that everything will be automated. For example, the food itself will be cooked by computer and served by robots. I suspect that most school dinners in the future will be made, served, and eaten at home. Modern technology means that children will be educated differently, you know. Teachers will have been made redundant and all the lessons will be given by enormous super computers that know everything. It's inevitable. So, school dinners will have to change too. Many think the food they'll be given will be much more international. And many said that all the food will probably be made from insects because there won't be any other animals left but there will be too many insects, so we'll have to...

Peter: Fascinating. Well, thank you, Horace Vole. Dr Bancroft? Do you agree with Horace's views?

Dr Bancroft: Well, not really, Peter, no. I don't think canteen food will be terribly different in the future. If we look back 30 years into the past, we can see that the food served in canteens then was very similar to the food that's being served now. We eat a bit more salad perhaps but in most canteens the food is very traditional. There's no evidence to suggest that such radical changes in education are going to be carried out in the near or distant future. The same is true of eating habits. I'm quite sure that someone going into a canteen in 30 years' time will find the food extremely familiar.

Peter: Let's see what someone who actually works in a canteen thinks. Mrs Mange, you're a school dinner lady. What do you think?

Mrs Mange: Well, I think we've got to give the kids what they want. They don't want to eat insects. In my school, the kids want egg and chips, beans on toast, beef burgers. Plenty of ketchup. White bread. Puddings. If you give them salad they won't eat it and it'll just be thrown away. It's a waste. And another thing. You're not replacing me with a robot. And all I know is that I'm not going to start serving spiders on toast, locust and chips, or ant burgers just because some government report tells me too. And the same goes for this so-called international food. We have pizza once a week. That's international and the kids love it. My kids don't want tagliatelle primavera, beef stroganoff, or lobster thermidor. They want egg and chips and that's what I'm going to give them – computer or no computer.

Peter: Well, on that thoughtful note, I'm afraid we've run out of time. Join us next week when we'll be discussing whether The Rolling Stones will still be touring in 30 years' time.

Accent Alert (track 25)

The Black Country Accent

The Black Country is about 10 miles from Birmingham. It's made up of four boroughs: Dudley, Walsall, Sandwell and Wolverhampton. But our main focus is the borough of Dudley.

The Black Country in general is famous for its industry, which is also why it received the name The Black Country. It got its name during the industrial revolution, when the sky was black due to the smog and smoke from all the factories, and also due to the blackness of the soil from all the coal. Dudley (considered, probably, the heart of the Black Country) has a history dating back to Medieval Times, and its famous castle has been there since about the 8th century.

People from the Black Country are very friendly. The area was subject to high levels of immigration in the 60 and 70s, which now means there's quite an eclectic community. The people and accents are some of the most interesting you'll find anywhere.

The accent is a very old dialect from the Medieval Era called Middle English. For example, when greeting one another, Dudley folk will ask "ow be?" This comes from the expression "How beist thou?", which is translated as, "How are you?" The response is, "Bay too bad", which comes from, "I bayn't be too bad", which means "I'm not too bad."

Other unusual words include "yo" meaning "you", and "yo am" (or "yo'm") instead of "you are". As a result, the people from the Black Country are often referred to as "yam yams".

There are some differences with the vowel sounds, too. For example, the vowel "a" is pronounced as "o". So, instead of "sand" = "sod", "hand" = "hod", "apple" = "opple", "spanner" = "sponner", and "man" = "mon". Other pronunciations are "winder" for "window", "fair" for "far", and "loff" for "laugh".

Another characteristic of the accent is the "en" word-ending in words such as "goen" ("going") or "callen" ("calling").

There are also many special words, phrases and expressions. For example, "ta" meaning "thanks", "ta-ra" meaning "bye", "bostin" meaning "good", "alf baerked" meaning "stupid", and "ar kid" (or "our kid"), which means "my friend".

Now, I'm going to tell you a short story in my best Black Country accent. Once, a friend from Canada once came to stay with me. We went to a local pub. I asked a man walking into the pub what time they stopped serving food, and his response was, "Yo con get sum scram ere til 5 an' 20 past 9. But if I was yo, id g darm to the Bostin Fittle." Which can be translated as, "You can get some food here until about 9.25. But if I were you, I'd go down to the Bostin Fittle" (a local pub). I turned to my friend with my eyebrows raised, and inquired what he wanted to do. But he just shook his head in disbelief and asked if the man I had just spoken to was actually speaking English!

ANSWERS

Slander Slam (track 26)

The world versus British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen.

Roberta: Good evening and welcome to "The Story Behind the Story", our daily look at some of the issues behind current news stories. In today's programme, we're looking at slander. First, to take us through the story, here's Ken.

Ken: Thanks, Roberta. Well, the story centres on controversial British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen, the creator of Bruno and Borat. Baron Cohen is being sued for slander by a Palestinian shop keeper from Bethlehem, Ayman Abu Aita. In the film Bruno, Mr Abu Aita is interviewed by Bruno, who is played by Baron Cohen. During one of the interviews, Bruno asks Abu Aita to kidnap him, and a caption appears on the screen telling the viewer that Abu Aita is a member of the militant al-Aqsa Martyrs' Brigade, a coalition of Palestinian nationalist militias in the West Bank which has been designated as a terrorist group by certain countries. A claim Mr Abu Aita denies. Then, as part of the promotion for the film, Baron Cohen appeared on the David Letterman Show, the popular US talk show. During his interview, Baron Cohen told Letterman that finding a "terrorist" to interview took several months and help from a CIA contact. Now, Mr Abu Aita claims that this "terrorist" reference is to himself. So, he's suing Baron Cohen, David Letterman, the film's director, Larry Charles, and NBC Universal, the film's distributor, for $110 million. Back to you, Roberta.

Roberta: So, there's a lot of money involved here. Let's turn now to our legal expert, Gordon Houseman. Gordon, can you tell us what exactly slander is?

Gordon: Certainly, Roberta. Well, slander is one aspect of the legal area that is called "defamation of character".

Roberta: And what's that?

Gordon: Basically, defamation of character is the saying or writing of anything that could harm a person's or an organisation's reputation. The most obvious example would be claiming that a person or an organisation has done something illegal.

Roberta: But what about freedom of speech? Don't we have the right in a democracy to express our opinions?

Gordon: Yes, we do. But not if our opinions are untrue and malicious.

Roberta: Malicious?

Gordon: It's one thing to say something that is your subjective opinion and that you have no evidence to support it. For example you could describe the Prime Minister as "a bad Prime Minister". That's OK. What you should be careful of saying is that he or she is "a criminal Prime Minister". Unless, of course, you have hard evidence to back up what you're saying. Describing someone's behaviour as criminal or illegal can be described as malicious – designed to harm their reputation and what is often referred to as their "good name". As Shakespeare wrote in his play, Othello, "He that filches from me my good name, robs me of that which no enriches him, and makes me poor indeed."

Roberta: Yes, quite. Erm, you said earlier that slander is one aspect of defamation of character?

Gordon: Yes, the other is libel. Slander is making spoken defamatory remarks about a person or organisation. Libel is making written remarks. In fact, the important distinction is that with libel the remarks are permanent. Strictly speaking, the Sacha Baron Cohen case is libel, because although the remarks about terrorists were spoken they have been recorded and are, therefore, permanent. Due to this distinction, damages for slander tend to involve smaller sums of money than those for libel. The permanent word does more damage, so you pay more.

Roberta: I imagine that slander would be extremely hard to prove.

Gordon: Yes, it is. We should remember, of course, that slander and libel laws vary from country to country, just as all laws do. However, in Britain, at least, proving slander is difficult. A remark can only be slanderous if it is heard by a third party. And the evidence of this third party provides proof of whether the remark was made. Celebrity Victoria Beckham recently lost a slander case and had to pay £150,000 in damages and costs when she said that a signed photograph of her husband, footballer David Beckham, was not genuine. The photograph was for sale in a shop and her comment was heard by journalists who were following her. The shopkeeper, who claimed that her remark had harmed his business, sued her for slander and won because the journalists provided evidence that Victoria Beckham had made the comment.

Roberta: I see. Well, that's very interesting. And do you think Abu Aita has a chance against Sacha Baron Cohen? Will he get his $110 million?

Gordon: Who knows? What is known is that other people have tried to sue Baron Cohen before and, so far, no one has won.

Off the Cuff (track 29)

Question: What really annoys you in life?

Mmm, tons of things but something that really annoys me, is when I'm driving and I see a person smoking and their hands out the window and you just know they're going to throw their cigarette butt, you know, out the window. Why do they have to do that? They have an ashtray in their car but they don't want to dirty their ashtray, and what really gets to me is when they take the whole ashtray, which is full of butts maybe from somebody else's putting their butts in, and they dump it into the street. What can you do? You can't change the world.

Well, this is quite a personal thing, but one thing that really annoys me is when you're travelling on an escalator and there's, there's enough space for two people, so one person, on the right you should be standing, and people on the left who want to get down quickly should be able to walk down the steps, but you always get people standing next to each other, chatting, having a conversation, or people with bags, and you just think, you know, have some respect for other people, think about other people, there are people that need to go quickly and, and you're getting in their way. It just drives me crazy.

Answers

Body Language (page 4)

- 1 Pre-reading
1f 2d 3a 4e 5b 6c
- 3 Reading II (answers will vary)
1. series; 2. signals; 3. attitude or state of mind; 4. 7%; 5. happiness and a friendly attitude; 6. equal; 7. face.

The Kill Switch (Page 5)

- 1 Pre-reading
1e 2f 3a 4c 5d 6b
- 3 Reading II
1. mechanism; 2. warranty; 3. remotely; 4. laptops; 5. year; 6. hours.
- 4 Language focus
1. She still lives in New York City.
2. He still works in the bank.
3. They still play in a band.
4. She is still working from home.
5. We are still making the food.
6. The cat is still playing in the garden.

Useful Vocabulary (Page 8)

- 1e 2j 3f 4a 5b 6g 7d 8h 9i 10c

What a Story! (Page 10)

- 3 Reading II
1. their garden; 2. fairies; 3. a book;
4. 1981; 5. sell; 6. didn't report;
7. aliens; 8. two
- 4 Language focus
1. They were eating the food.
2. She was running to work.
3. They were taking a photo.
4. They were playing football in the park.
5. She was writing the e-mail.

Error Correction (Page 13)

1. There isn't much milk in the fridge.
2. There aren't many chairs in the room.
3. Are there many pens on the table?
4. Is there much sugar in the coffee?
5. There is not much salt in this food.
6. We don't have much money.

Home Sweet Home (Page 13)

- 1 Pre-listening
1h 2a 3b 4c 5d 6e 7f 8g
- 3 Listening II
1. three; 2. five; 3. Cambridge University; 4. £600,000; 5. opera; 6. no

Grammar Fun (Page 14)

1. I've been to New Zealand. I went there two months ago.
2. Jenny has spoken to her uncle. She spoke to him yesterday.
3. Bob has given us the money. He gave it to us ten minutes ago.
4. The Bakers have arrived. They arrived a few minutes ago.
5. Abigail has lost her bag. She lost it last night.
6. We've sent the e-mail. We sent it two days ago.

Suits You (Page 15)

- 1 Pre-reading
1h 2a 3b 4c 5d 6e 7f 8g
- 3 Reading II
1. They all get/got their suits made in Saville Row.
2. The golden mile of tailoring.
3. In Mayfair, Central London.
4. Hardy Amies Ltd.
5. 1969.
6. The Duke of Bedford, Mick Jagger and The Beatles.
7. Will Smith, Russell Crowe, Jamie Foxx and Keanu Reeves.
8. At least fifty.
- Language focus
1. It's raining, isn't it?

2. They live here, don't they?
3. She's got a dog, hasn't she?
4. They've eaten, haven't they?
5. We'll go in ten minutes, won't we?

Pampered Pets (Page 16)

- 3 Reading II (answers will vary)
1. The Bow-Lingual Dog Translator = a gadget to translate dog talk into human words.
2. I-Paw = a sort of iPod for dogs. It plays songs.
3. Arfmerican Barxpress Card = a toy credit card.
4. Doggone Doggy Thong = a thong for dogs to wear on the beach.
5. Petattoos = tattoos for dogs.
6. Happy Tail Ale = a non-alcoholic beer for dogs.
7. Bubble Buddy = a water pistol that fires chicken- or bacon-flavoured soap bubbles.
- 4 Language focus
1. The e-mails are sent.
2. The rooms are cleaned.
3. The paper is cut.
4. The cars are made.

Fighting Fun (Page 17)

- 1 Pre-reading
1b 2f 3c 4a 5e 6d
- 3 Reading II
1. Shirley Crabtree Jr; 2. "Who's the Daddy?"; 3. apprentices; 4. a harness; 5. "Hoselupf" (trouser lifting); 6. masks

Animal Charity (Page 19)

- 3 Listening II
1. generous; 2. a tail; 3. cheese;
4. London; 5. a house; 6. a couple of weeks
- 4 Language focus
1. They have been eating.
2. She has been finishing.
3. We haven't been watching it.
4. He has been running.
5. They have been washing the car.

All the Rage (Page 28)

- 3 Reading II
1. Throwing ice cubes around, trying to open the emergency doors, crew members losing their tempers and pilots bursting into tears.
2. "Intermittent explosive disorder", crowded roads, traffic jams, bad driving, being stuck in a confined space, changes in air pressure, a lack of oxygen, cramped seating, claustrophobia, long queues and alcohol.
3. Training in self-defence; courses in conflict avoidance, 24-hour help-lines and putting up warning signs against assaulting members of staff.

To the Manner Born (Page 29)

- 3 Reading II
An English person would...
1. ... get into a queue.
2. ... say, "Sorry to bother you, but would you possibly have a minute or so to have a quick chat if you don't mind, please?"
3. ... say, "Excuse me! I hate to be a bother, but would you mind awfully changing this fork, please?"
4. ... squeeze past and say sorry.
5. ... say sorry.
6. ... say, "I'd like a packet of crisps, please. Thanks."

Hotel Horror (Page 31)

- 3 Reading II
1. The Ramsay Inn
2. The Parrot Cay
3. The Setai Hotel
4. Hotel Puente Romano

5. Canberra Novotel
6. Honeymoon Petra Villas

Riddles (page 32)

1. There is one "p" in a "pint".
2. A potato
3. A mouse

School Food (page 33)

- 3 Listening II
1. changes; 2. robots; 3. computers;
4. future; 5. familiar; 6. beef burgers;
7. salad; 8. egg
- 4 Language focus
1. The documents will be sent.
2. The song will be recorded.
3. The bill will be paid.
4. The picture will be framed.

Slander Slam (page 37)

- 1 Pre-listening
Number 3 is false.
- 2 Listening I
Because he has claimed that someone is a member of a terrorist organisation.
- 3 Listening II
Libel is making written defamatory remarks about a person or organisation. Slander is making spoken defamatory remarks about a person or organisation.
- 4 Language focus
1. on; 2. for; 3. on; 4. to; 5. as;
6. up; 7. the; 8. to; 9. by; 10. a

Famous Feasts (Page 39)

- 1 Pre-reading
1d 2h 3e 4f 5a 6b 7g 8c
- 3 Reading II
Duck = President Obama's inauguration dinner
Oysters = 2007's Epicurean Masters of the World feast
Camel, Bear = A New Year's Eve feast in Paris in 1870
Bull, swan, peacock, seal = A feast to celebrate the enthronement of George Neville in 1467

Wacky Workouts (page 40)

- 3 Reading II (answers may vary)
1. Stiletto Strength = Pilates and strength training in 8-centimetre highheels.
2. Beat Up your Boss = a boxing match with your boss.
3. Bikram Yoga = yoga in a room with the temperature up to 40°C.
4. Plastic Wrapping = wrapping yourself in cling-film.
5. Hawaii Chair = a chair that spins and vibrates.
6. Tweet What you Eat = sending messages via Twitter every time you eat or drink.
7. Karaoke Spinning = simultaneously singing songs and working out on an exercise bike.

Big Lies (page 41)

- 3 Reading II (answers may vary)
1. Richard Nixon = he lied about the Watergate scandal.
2. Bill Clinton = he lied about his relationship with an intern.
3. Paul Burrell = he lied during the Princess Diana inquest.
4. Jeffrey Archer = he lied during a trial he brought against the Daily Mail.
5. Sarah Palin = she lied about President Obama's supposed "death panels".

Phrasal Verbs (page 42)

1. investigation; 2. cure; 3. storm;
4. spending; 5. week; 6. witnesses;
7. scheme; 8. servants.

WORD OF THE MONTH

Irony

THIS MONTH'S WORD OF THE MONTH IS... "IRONY".

Read the following dialogue. Did speaker B have a good time on her trip?

- A: Hey, how was the trip?
B: Oh, great. It rained every day, we missed our flight and Oscar was sick for most of the time. We had a fantastic time!

Speaker B is using irony. Although she's saying she had a good time, she didn't really. Irony is a subtle form of humour which involves saying the opposite to what you mean. For example:

- A: What did you think of the show?
B: It was great. Wonderful. Marvellous. In fact, I couldn't think of a better way to spend my time.
A: You really liked it?
B: No, of course not! It was rubbish!

When you make an "ironic" remark, you say something that you do not mean, often as a way of joking or being funny. In this example, Speaker B is making an ironic comment:

- A: What do the staff think of him?
B: Oh, they love him. In fact they call him Mr Popular behind his back.

And if you say something "ironically", you are saying it as a joke, or in an attempt at humour. For example:

- a) "This is their nicest wine," he said ironically.
b) "I'm having a great time," she said ironically.

In many cases, it may be hard to detect the irony. So, you have to pay careful attention to the tone of voice and any body language. Quite often, when people are making an ironic comment, they will have a smile or smirk on their face. Other times, their voice may sound dull or boring even though they are saying something apparently positive.

So, what's the difference between irony and sarcasm? Irony and sarcasm are similar – they're both ways of saying the opposite to what you think. However, with sarcasm the speaker's objective is to harm, hurt or ridicule someone; whereas irony is less hurtful and more of a means of commenting on something. Look at these examples:

Irony

- A: So, what did you think of the meal?
B: Oh, it was delicious!

Sarcasm

- A: What did you think of my song?
B: Great. You've got a real talent there!

So, what did you think of this article? Now try to answer that question ironically!

Next month, we'll be looking at "situational irony". ☘ next month in hot english

Robin Hood Russell Crowe

Unusual English pastimes

Ridiculous job requests

Pirates ahoy!

Investment scams

eReaders

60 minute CD

Hot Staff

Directors
Managing Director
 Thorley Russell (00 34 91 543 3573)
 thorley@hotenglishmagazine.com
Editorial Director
 Andy Coney (00 34 91 543 3573)
 andyc@hotenglishmagazine.com

Finance
Financial Director
 Leigh Dante (00 34 91 549 8523)
 leigh@hotenglishmagazine.com

Classes Department
Director of Studies
 Sheila Renée (00 34 91 455 0273)
 classes@hotenglishmagazine.com
Teacher Liaison Officer
 teacherinfo@hotenglishmagazine.com

Administration Department
Subscriptions (9:30-13:00)
 Charlotte Christiansen
 (tel / fax) (00 34 91 549 8523) subs@hotenglishmagazine.com payments@hotenglishmagazine.com
 Credit control and administration 9-2
 (by e-mail thereafter).
 Office hours 9:30 - 6 pm (Spanish time)

Barcelona office (Hot English)
 barcelona@hotenglishmagazine.com

Seville office (Hot English)
 Christine Ervin: 670 737 118
 sevilla@hotenglishmagazine.com

Editorial Department Staff
 Philip McIvor designer
 Patrick Howarth writer
 Sam Gordon writer
 Jason Spilman Teacher's Notes
 Nick Hargreaves writer

Contributors
 Dougal Maguire cover artist
 Blanca San Roman translation
 Craig Dewe web marketing
 Fred McLaughlan interviews
 Paul McGann writer
 Tyler Altes proof reading
 Magnus Coney proof reading
 Marcie Lambert proof reading
 Natalia T. Piekarowicz proof reading
 Laurent Guiard French depart.
 Kevin Doherty IT / video editor

Luz Ovalle intern
 Alexis V. Wynn intern
 Christine Bohn intern
 Alexander Olya intern
 Ana Costa intern
 Ana Batista intern

Printing Artes Gráficas Hono S.L.
Audio Production atxsound.com
CD Production MPO S.A.
 ISSN 1577-7898
 Depósito Legal M.14272.2001
 April 2010
Published by Hot English Publishing, S.L.
 C/Paseo del Rey, 22 - 1ª planta, oficina 1, Madrid 28008
 Phone: (00 34) 91 549 8523
 Fax: (00 34) 672 317 912
 Skype: hotenglishmagazine2010
 info@hotenglishmagazine.com
 www.hotenglishmagazine.com
 www.hotenglishgroup.com

What is Hot English?

A monthly magazine for improving your English. Real English in genuine contexts. Slang. British English. Functional language. US English. Cartoons. Fun and easy to read. Helpful glossaries. Useful expressions. Something for everyone. Readers from 16 to 105 years old. From pre-intermediate to advanced (CEF levels A2-C1). Ready-to-use lessons. Fantastic 60-minute audio CD. Teacher's Notes. Part of the Hot English Method. Great website with videos: www.hotenglishmagazine.com. All the English you'll ever need!

Revista Hot English – versión online.

Un año de suscripción = ¡Solamente 34 euros!

Hot English estará disponible a principios de cada mes en nuestro sitio web. Simplemente con tu código de usuario y tu contraseña, podrás descargar todos los ficheros que quieras leer y/o escuchar de nuestra revista Hot English.

...❖ En cualquier momento, en cualquier lugar.

...❖ ¡Se cargan ficheros nuevos cada mes! ¡Garantizado!

...❖ Lee y escuchar nuestra revista en cualquier lugar del mundo.

Descarga las páginas en formato PDF.

Descarga los ficheros de sonido en formato MP3

Consigue tu código de usuario y tu contraseña online AHORA con nuestro seguro sistema PayPal en la página www.hotenglishmagazine.com o llama nuestro departamento de suscripciones (0034) 91 549 85 23

O envía un email a subs@hotenglishmagazine.com o sino envía el formulario de suscripción de que hay en la revista.

Telephone Course

Inspirational Education!

Up-to-date material linked to a structured course - a unique solution.

The Hot English Method

The Hot English Method consists of two interlinked products: the Skills Booklets and Hot English magazine. Together, they provide up-to-date material and structure. Perfect for Pre-Intermediate (A2) to Advanced (C1) students.

The Skills Booklets

Hot English magazine

Who is this course for?

- > An executive who travels a lot and finds it difficult to attend English class regularly.
- > Someone not living near a quality academy or a native English teacher.
- > Someone with limited time looking for a more intensive class session.

Why is it good for you?

- > It's flexible: Our method allows you to study in your own time, whenever you can.
- > It's intensive: It consists of 30-minute, one-on-one telephone-class sessions.
- > It's useful: Being able to speak and understand English over the phone is a great skill to acquire.
- > It's structured: The course syllabus allows you to monitor your progress.
- > It's quality: Fully-qualified native English teachers are just a phone call away.
- > It's helpful: The course includes weekly error correction by e-mail guaranteeing improvement.
- > It's interesting: Monthly material based on real people you'll be inspired to learn more.

How does it work?

You study our method in your own time, checking the exercises with the answer sheets. In your regular telephone class, you'll have the opportunity to discuss any questions, but the class will mainly be to practise using the structures and to practise speaking by discussing the topics or doing the speaking activities. At the end of the class, the teacher will send you an e-mail explaining any language points and showing you what you need to work on for the next class.

What do I get?

- > A FREE online subscription to Hot English magazine for the duration of the course.
- > A 100-page SKills Booklet sent to your home (Spain) or the PDF version (outside Spain).
- > A FREE oral needs and level assessment by telephone.

What do I need?

- > A SKYPE connection!

Our contact details: e-mail classes@hotenglishmagazine.com Call (00 34) 91 455 0273
SKYPE hotenglishmagazine2010 Visit www.hotenglishmagazine.com/telephone-classes.php