

Islamic Azad University of Maragheh

English Language Department

A Thesis:

Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of

Master of Arts (M.A.) in Teaching English as a Foreign Language

The Effect of Recasts and Prompts on the Acquisition of Past Passive Tense of English

Supervisor: Dr. Mortaza Aslrasoly

Advisor: Dr. Ali Soraiaeiazar

By: Mochtaba Mahmoody

September, 2012

In the Name of Allah

To my parents my wife and my daughter

with love and respect

Acknowledgement

This research benefited from the support and help from a number of people. I would like to take this opportunity to show my sincere gratitude to each one of them. I would like to express my heart-felt gratitude to Dr. Aslrasoli, my supervisor, who guided me through the different stages of my MA study with insightful comments, constructive feedback, and most important of all, continuous support and encouragement. I would also like to thank Dr. A. Soriaeiazar for his consistent support and guidance. I benefited a great deal from his knowledge of language acquisition and their thought-provoking feedback and suggestions. I am fortunate to have had the opportunity to learn from them. I am also indebted to Dr. M. Yousefi, for his extensive knowledge and scholarly advice that were constructive in the development of my MA thesis. This research would not have been completed without the generous support and help from the teachers, and students at the Collegezabanara English language institute where I conducted the present study. I am truly grateful for their interest the study and their cooperation during the data collection period. This thesis is dedicated to my parents my family and my friends whose unconditional love and support encouraged me to finish my study.; my wife, who never hesitated to provide moral support in helping me complete this thesis; my parents-in-law who made great sacrifices to help me; my daughter, whose love and smile were the intrinsic motivation throughout this process.

Abstract

This study investigated how recasts and prompts benefited acquisition of regular and irregular English past passive tense. The research questions were: 1. Do the groups that carry out form- focused activities and tasks while receiving corrective feedback show superiority in acquiring past passive tense of English over the control group which perform the same tasks and activities without receiving corrective feedback on the target structure (past passive tense)? 2. Do prompts have differentials effects on the learning of past passive tense of English? 3. Do recasts have differentials effects on the learning of past passive tense of English?

Sixty adult EFL learners in 3 intact classes in an intermediate level participated in the study. The 3 classes were randomly assigned to one prompt group (n = 20), one recast group (n = 20), and one control group (n = 20). The instructional treatment included fifteen random transitive verbs which are presented by photo and another fifteen random one by Persian text which were translated into English by students. They are highlighted the target forms and results showed that in the two feedback groups, teachers consistently provided one type of feedback (i.e., either recast or prompt) in response to learners' errors during the communicative activities, whereas in the control group the teacher provided feedback only on content of the communicative tasks. Participants' acquisition of the past passive tense forms was assessed through an oral test immediately after the treatment.

Results showed that feedback groups significantly improved their accuracy scores over control group. Results also indicated that there were no significant differences between feedback groups (recast, prompt).

These findings indicated the beneficial role of feedback in communicative activities in foreign language learning and in EFL classrooms.

Dedication	i
Acknowledgment	ii
Abstract	iii
Table of contents	iv
List of tables.....	x
List of figures.....	xi
List of abbreviations.....	xii

Table of contents

Chapter one: Introduction

1.0. Introduction.....	2
1.1. Negative feedback.....	3
1.2. Recast.....	5
1.3. Prompt.....	6
1.4. Significance of the study.....	8
1.5. Design.....	9
1.6. Analysis.....	10

1.7. Research questions.....	10
1.8. Instructional materials.....	10
1.9. Definition of the key terms.....	11
1.9.1. Recast.....	11
1.9.2. Prompt.....	11
1.9.3. Corrective feedback.....	11

Chapter two: Review of the related literature

2.0. Introduction.....	13
2.1. form-focused instruction.....	13
2.2. Feedback and second language learning.....	14
2.3. Definition of recast and prompt.....	15
2.4. The role of input and output in SLA.....	18
2.4.1. Krashen's input hypothesis.....	18
2.4.2. Swains output hypothesis.....	19
2.4.3. Schmidt's noticing hypothesis.....	21

2.5. Feedback and its function in SLA.....	23
2.5.1. Feedback classification.....	23
2.5.2. Types of evidence that feedback provides.....	25
2.6. Theoretical framework on the relative efficiency of feedback.....	27
2.6.1. The distinct function of recasts and prompts.....	28
2.7. General effect of feedback in second language acquisition.....	30
2.8. Empirical studies on the relative efficiency of feedback.....	33
2.8.1. Descriptive studies on feedback.....	33
2.8.1.1. The issue of context in descriptive feedback studies.....	35
2.8.1.2. Descriptive feedback studies in foreign language contexts.....	37
2.8.2. Experimental and quasi-experimental studies on recasts and prompts....	41
2.8.2.1. Classroom studies.....	42
2.8.2.2. Lab studies.....	47
2.9. The effect of recast in second language learning.....	51
2.10. Relative efficiency of recasts in comparison with other feedback types.....	57

2.11. Summary.....	57
--------------------	----

Chapter three: Methodology

3.0. Introduction.....	61
3.1. Target structure.....	61
3.2. Participants.....	62
3.3. Instructional Materials.....	63
3.4. Instruments.....	64
3.5. Procedure.....	65
3.5.1. Pre-treatment procedure.....	65
3.5.2. Treatment procedure.....	66
3.5.2.1. Teacher role in recast group.....	66
3.5.2.2. Teacher role in prompt group.....	68
3.5.2.3. Teacher role in control group.....	70
3.6. Post-treatment procedure.....	70
3.7. Sequence of oral tests.....	70

3.7.1. The scoring procedure.....	71
3.8. Chapter summary.....	72

Chapter four: Data analysis

4.0. Introduction.....	74
4.1. Data set and statistical model.....	74
4.2. Results of the oral test.....	74
4.3. Overall past passive tens forms.....	75
4.4. Tukey and between group differences.....	76
4.5. Summary of the results from quantitative analysis.....	77
4.6. Chapter summary.....	78

Chapter five: Conclusions and discussions

5.0. Introduction.....	80
5.1. Summary of the chapters.....	80
5.2. Discussions and conclusions.....	81
5.3. Implications of the study.....	84

5.4. Limitations of the study.....85

5.5. Suggestions for further study.....87

List of tables

Table 3.1.....	63
Table 4.1.....	75
Table 4.2.....	76

List of figures

Figure 4.177

List of abbreviations

SLA: second language acquisition

NS: native speaker

L2: second language

ESL: English as a second language

EFL: English as a foreign language

L1: first language

U.S.: united states

COLT: communicative orientation to language teaching

FLT: foreign language teaching

TEFL: teaching English as a foreign language

CF: corrective feedback